July 7th	232	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	1 4 0	Haripada Chatterji and Adhar Chandra Chatterji, 82, College Street, Calcutta.	Based on Kavi Chandra's popular story about the sacrifice of his son, Vrishaketu by Karna, half-brother of the Pandavas. Karna was well known for his generosity and his determination to keep his word at any hazard. Now, Krishna wanted to test his character, and with that object presented himself before him in the disguise of a Brahman, and expressed a wish to feast on the cooked flesh of his son Vrishaketu. But Karna was equal to the occasion, and regaled the Brahman with the flesh of his son, whom he killed with his own hand. The son was, of course, restored to life. The writer has introduced many new characters and incidents into the story, and thereby considerably marred its beauty.	4818
June 30th	104	12mo dy	1st...	2,000	ditto ...	0 8 0	Krishnapada Vidyáratna, Bhátpárá, 24-Parganas.	The story of Ekasringa's marriage with Nalini, daughter of the king of Benares. In one of his previous births, Buddha was born of a she-antelope and named Ekasringa or the one-horned, on account of a horn on his forehead. He is bred up in the hermitage of his foster-father Kásyapa without the slightest knowledge of sex. One day he receives a visit from Princess Naliní, whom he in his simplicity mistakes for a hermit of superior powers hailing from a purer and better place than his father's hermitage. He instinctively feels attracted towards her, and notwithstanding his father's warning accompanies the princess to her father's capital. There he is received with due honours by the king and married to the princess with his foster-father's permisson. The book is a Bengali version of the story of Ekasringa as found in Kshemendra's Avadánakalpalatá. The writer is not without power, and his characterisation of Ekasringa in the play does him credit.	4819
June 14th	260	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	1 0 0	Basu, Láhá & Co., 4, Jagannáth Sur's Lane, Calcutta.	A mythological drama based on the story of the demon Sankha Chúda's death by the hand of the god Siva. Tulasi was Sankha-Chúda's wife, and both she and her husband were Krishna's attendants in a previous birth, and converted into demons by Rádhiká's imprecation.	4820

1897.	Pages.					Rs. A. P.
June 10th	84	12mo dy	2nd...	1,000	Printed	0 4 0	Káli Charan Mitra.	A social piece, of which the plot is as follows: A zamindar's son turns scape-grace and begins to borrow money and spend the same on wine, woman and a lot of parasites. At last the money-lender, who supplied him with money, brings him to court; the favourite who negotiated the loans turns against him, and the woman over whom he lavished his love and money forsakes him. This brings him to his senses, and he mends his ways and becomes reconciled to his father and family. A young man, who either in present or in prospective possession of a fortune, takes to borrowing money recklessly, is called "Captain" in Bengali slang, and this explains the title of the book.	4821
Aug. 21st	9	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	0 2 0	Vihárilál Batavyál, Raut-khanda, Bánkura.	Street literature, directed against female education. The story of an educated woman who killed her husband to please her paramour, and then committed suicide in repentance after warning parents against educating their daughters.	4822
June 3rd	52	12mo dy	1st...	3,000	ditto ...	0 3 0	Priyanáth Mukherji, 88/1, Keranibágán East Lane, Calcutta.	The story of the murder of one co-wife by another. A subordinate judge had two wives, of whom the elder one murdered the younger, cut off a piece of flesh from her dead body and served it up as meat to her husband. She confessed her crime, and was sentenced to death, but the sentence was commuted by Government to one of transportation for life. Habitual ill treatment by her rival, coupled with a jesting allusion to her dead son, seems to have goaded her to the crime.	4823

June 11th	80	12mo dy	2nd...	1,000	Printed.	0 8 0	The publisher, 112, Upper-Chitpur Road, Calcutta.	An old-fashioned story of love and adventure. The author, though a Mahammedan, writes fairly good Bengali.	482[illegible]

Aug. 14th	602	8vo.	1st...	...	ditto ...	2 0 0	......	A really interesting series of historical sketches connected with Murshidábád, the last seat of Mahammedan Government in Bengal. Many of these sketches were originally contributed to the columns of well-known Bengali journals. A collection of these with a good deal of additional matter has been presented in the volume under notice. In the sketch headed "Plassey," the author, on the authority of English historians like Malleson and others, paints the character of Nawab Sirájud-dowlá in colours, distinctly more attractive than those in which European historians have hitherto been wont to paint it. The book is the outcome of considerable study and local research. Contemporary records, both English and Native, have been laid under contribution, and references to authorities have been given for every statement of importance. The writer, who appears to be a native of the district, with whose history and traditions he deals, has brought to his task a zeal and enthusiasm which is really commendable.	483[illegible]

June 28th	258	16mo dy	1st...	500	ditto ...	0 12 0	Víresvar Pánde, Calcutta.	A detailed examination of Babu Navín Chandra Sen's poems Raivataka, Kurukshetra and Prabhás. The examination, which is remarkable for clearness of thought, closeness of reasoning and sound common sense has brought to light the glaring inconsistencies and contradictions of the poems in the conception and development of their plot and the serious defects of style and language under which they labour. The criticism falls under three heads according as it relates to the historical basis of the poems, the philosophy which they teach and the characters which they pourtray. And in every one of these heads the criticism is the most searching and destructive possible, and the utterly maudlin and incoherent character of the poems is apparent.	4902

It relates how a man, who was troubled with doubts regarding God's mercy, providence and justice as manifested in creation, had these solved by the goddess Bhakti (devotion to God), who revealed herself to him in a dream and taught that bhedjnan or the conception of indivdual souls as distinct from the Universal Soul was the cause of all their sufferings in this world and that mukti or salvation could only be achieved by getting rid of this bhedjnan. She related, moreover, how she herself was once a victim of this bhedjnan, and lost sight of her Lord (God), but whom she recovered with the returning consciousness of her identity with Him.	4906

June 16th	29	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	0 2 0	Káli Dás Pál, 374 Upper Chitpur Road, Calcutta.	In this poem the Queen-Empress is respectfully asked to pay a visit to India, and there to see with her own eyes the condition of her subjects. If she were to come she would see a starving people reduced to skeletons, who, niggers as they are, neither want arms and guns, nor seats on the judicial bench, nor the privilege to try European British subjects ; but who only want bread, clothing and water to enable them to live in health. The sights which Her Majesty would see in Bombay and elsewhere, of people stricken with plague and famine are then described in vivid language. The writer is unable to account for those visitations, but he has heard great men say that the sins of the sovereign bring destruction on his kingdom. Let, therefore, the Empress come to India and perform holy and auspicious rites for the good of her subjects. They are ready to receive her with their offering of unfeigned love and loyalty and to open their hearts to her in the expectation of obtaining redress.	4920

June 12th	96	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	Printed	0 6 0	The Author, Jasái, Faridpur.	Gives expression to the sorrow and anguish of lovers, who have been more or less unfortunate in their love, and whose dreams of happiness have been rudely shattered by the vicissitudes of their lives. The book also teaches that true love is an ideal sentiment absolutely free from all tinge of sensuality and selfishness. A true lover loves he knows not why and expects no sort of requital from his object of love. The poem is conceived in a strain of the utmost pessimism and mysticism so common in modern Bengali poetry.	4926

PACIFIC OCEAN—DIANA SHOAL

An unsuccessful search.

NOTICE No. 790 of 1897 issued by the British Admiralty is republished.

Information has been received from Captain A. Mostyn-Field, H.M. Surveying Vessel Penguin, that, in August 1897, he sounded over an area embracing 80 miles in longitude and nearly 40 miles in latitude, in the vicinity of Diana shoal, originally reported in 1852 as having a depth of 6 feet on it, and as being situated in lat. 8° 40′ N., long. 157° 20′ W.

The Peguin spent 5 days in the search, obtaining soundings of from 2,560 to 2,946 fathoms at distances of 7 to 10 miles apart, and observing no indication of a shoal in any part of the locality.

In view of the above, and the fact that schooners have plied for many years between Honolulu and Fanning island over the position of the shoal, and that it has not been seen since the first vague report, Diana shoal has been expunged from the Admiralty Charts.

AUSTRALIA—TORRES STRAIT—INNER ROUTE.

(1) Passage through the Great Barrier Reef, near the Howick group.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 20 of 1897) that Captain W. Dawson, of H.M.S. Waterwitch, reports having sounded out the passage through the Great Barrier Reef, which lies between Stapleton (X) Islet (in lat. 14° 19′ 12″ S., long. 144° 51′ 3″ E.) and No. 1 sandbank.

The passage, which will be known hereafter as "Waterwitch Passage," is clear of dangers and carries a depth of 14 to 19 fathoms.

Vessels proceeding to sea from the Inner Route should pass between Bewick and Ingham Islands, and, having made Stapleton Island, leave it on the starboard hand ½ mile distant; then steering N. 10° E. (mag.) for 7·4 miles will bring No. 1 sandbank abeam. It is close to the edge of the reef, and should be passed on the starboard hand ½ mile distant. The passage is 1¼ miles wide, but the reef on the west side of it should be given a good berth, as it was not sounded off. Heavy tide-rips and strong tidal currents are met with in the passage, but on the sandbank side it is always smooth. The northern edge of the reef west of Stapleton Island bears N. 62½° W. from Stapleton. The channel between the two is 2·2 miles wide, and quite clear of dangers.

Also, that a Rock, with 18 feet on it at low-water springs, exists westward of Haughton Island. From it the summit of Howick Island bears N. 63° E. (mag)., distant 2·3 miles.

Fairway beacon with illuminated gauge.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 22 of 1897) that an automatic clock-face tide guage, illuminated at night, is exhibited from the Fairway Beacon at the outer edge of the bar at Cairns Harbour. The beacon from which False Cape bears S. 79° 30′ E and the front leading light S. 24° W. is placed in a depth of 15 feet at low-water springs, and is 150 feet from the line of lights and beacons marking the centre of the bar cutting. It is to be left on the port hand when entering.

The tide guage indicates the height of tide above low-water datum from 1 foot to 11 feet by means of a pointer moving round a clock-face dial looking seaward. The gauge does not indicate below 1 foot nor above 11 feet, the pointer resting at those points, so that 1 foot should be interpreted 1 foot or under and 11 feet as 11 feet and over.

The available depth in the cutting will be obtained by adding 12′ 6″ to the height shown by the guage.

The light will be visible in clear weather at a distance of 5 miles, except between the bearings of W. S. W. and S. S. E., between which bearings the direct light is obscured, and the frosted clock-face is only visible.

The old red Fairway Buoy has been removed.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

A fee of Rs. 5 shall be payable for its registration. No more than one mark shall be registered for one owner.

7. No person shall be allowed to register a mark already registered in favour of another person, nor any mark used by the Government, and the Forest Officer in charge of the Gorakhpur Forest Division may refuse the registration of any mark which, in his judgment, too closely resembles a mark used by the Government or registered in favour of any other person.

8. Every registration under rule 6 shall hold good for three years following the 1st January next after the date of registration.

9. A certificate, showing the mark registered, the date of registration and the period for which it holds good, and acknowledging the payment of the fee, shall be given to every person registering a mark under rule 6.

10. Within the limits notified under section 45 of the Indian Forest Act, by notification No. 1026For., dated the 28th February 1894, the converting, cutting, burning, concealing or marking of timber, the altering or effacing of any marks, on the same, and the possession or carrying of marking hammers or other implements used for the marking of timber, except with the permission in writing of the Forest Officer in charge of the Gorakhpur Forest Division, is prohibited. Such permission, if granted, shall specify the place at which only it is to take effect, and may contain such other conditions regarding the previous inspection of the timber and otherwise as may be necessary.

11. Whoever contravenes any of these rules shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—MEDICAL.

Calcutta, the 8th February 1898.

RESOLUTION—No. 659Medl.

THE promulgation of Plague Notification No. 9 of the 10th November in the districts of Bihar gave rise to considerable misapprehension on the part of the people as to the effect of some of the provisions of the Regulation, and misunderstanding as to the steps which it was proposed to take at present as contrasted with the more stringent measures that might have to be brought into force should plague unfortunately actually invade the Province. Much was done, through the judicious action of the Commissioner and District Officers, to allay the mis-apprehension, but the Lieutenant-Governor thought it desirable that he should himself visit Bihar, confer with the local officers, and explain to the leading members of the Native community the true scope of the Government policy in connection with the prevention, detection, and treatment of plague. It appeared also to His Honour that it was possible so to recast the Regulation as to mitigate its stringency and allay the fears of the people without sacrificing any of the essential principles prescribed by the Government of India.

2. Sir Alexander Mackenzie has returned from a rapid tour in Bihar, in the course of which he has received deputations of Native notables from the districts of Muzaffarpur, Champaran, Darbhanga, Arrah, Patna, Saran and Gaya. He was glad to find that the modifications which he proposed in the Regulation met with universal acceptance, and the Regulations appended to this Resolution will take the place of Regulation 9 in the case of all mufassal municipalities, cantonments, and villages.

3. To each deputation in turn the Lieutenant-Governor pointed out that there certainly is no need for panic or alarm at the present time, inasmuch as the plague has not yet come anywhere near Bengal, while the Governments of Bombay, the Punjab, the North Western Provinces and the Central Provinces, each in its own jurisdiction, are taking effective steps for preventing its spread. It was also remarked that the disease is not one which spreads rapidly, and that if it ever extended to the neighbourhood of the Bengal frontier ample notice would be secured in advance. Nor is it a disease that springs up of itself in tracts where it has hitherto been unknown. The essential thing at present, therefore, is to guard against importation and to detect and deal with the first imported cases

4. His Honour agreed with the objections taken in most of the memorials to the employment of the police in house-to-house investigation at the present stage of the operations. He was prepared to make over in large measure the duty of reporting suspected cases to the people themselves on a plan which he proceeded to outline. In the first place, however, he thought it quite unnecessary to report to any authority ordinary cases of "sudden fever," "pain in the chest with cough and feeling of oppression," and similar ordinary diseases of the country. It would be sufficient to watch arrivals from infected tracts, and to report cases of illness among them or among the residents of houses in which such persons might be staying or have resided.

5. The supervision of such arrivals and the reporting of illness among them would, he thought, best be effected by dividing each town into convenient circles of 300 or 400 or more houses, as local conditions might dictate, and appointing for each of these circles a Committee of Observation consisting of one Hindu and one Muhammadan gentleman approved by the District Magistrate, and to give them a Muharrir as Registering Officer, to be paid a small salary by the Municipality or Government. The Committee would report daily on the health of the circle through the Muharrir to the Civil Surgeon. If there was a case that appeared to them suspicious, the Civil Surgeon would judge, on the facts reported, whether there was ground for suspicion or not. If not, nothing more would be required. If he thought the case suspicious he would make further enquiry with the aid of a Medical Committee of which at present it would suffice to have one for each town. It should consist of the Civil Surgeon himself as President, of one Hindu medical practitioner, one Muhammadan medical practitioner, and one female doctor. The Native members need not necessarily be men of European medical training, but should be men of respectability, approved by the District Magistrate. The Medical Committee would visit the spot, and in concert, if possible, with the Committee of Observation enquire into the case. This enquiry in the case of purda women would be conducted through the agency of the female member of the Committee. If the case was not one of plague, nothing more would be done. If it turned out to be a case of plague, it would have to be treated in the manner described below.

6. At the outset it was necessary to make clear the fact that what was called "home segregation" could under no circumstances be allowed. One fact which was clearly demonstrated by experience was this, that in the case of plague, the house itself, its walls and floors, become poisoned in such a way that evacuation of the house, and of all neighbouring buildings to which infection might be reasonably supposed to extend, was essential at the outset. The home treatment of cholera and small-pox was no precedent for the treatment of plague. Cholera was rarely, if ever, directly dangerous to those in attendance, if the evacuations were promptly treated with disinfectants and properly disposed of. In small-pox the risk came from direct contact with the patient, and to properly vaccinated attendants was practically nil. Not only was the plague more dangerous than either of these diseases, but its mode of infection was, it appeared, more subtle. The dust of the floors, the plaster of the walls, every garment of the patient, became a source of danger; and though, as was shown in the experience of hospital attendants and the like in Bombay, under proper precautions and a thorough system of personal and floor disinfection, the danger could be minimised, there was no doubt whatever that flight from the infected house until it had been thoroughly disinfected and left unoccupied for some time was, in the present state of our knowledge, the only satisfactory measure to check its propagation. This is in accordance also with the experience of the North-Western Provinces. In the case of Kankhal, a town of 7,000 inhabitants, the whole town was evacuated and the sick placed in garden-houses attended by their friends or relatives who also were kept in strict segregation. The other inhabitants were placed in a series of camps consisting of huts constructed with due regard to female privacy and the custom of the country. There was a separate camp for each different class of people. In spite of all precautions an ordinary house in the crowded part of a town in which a case of plague has occurred cannot be made safe without evacuation not only of the house itself, but of the houses in its vicinity. The narrower the circle of adjacent houses evacuated, the less chance there is of controlling the disease. The affected house or quarter would therefore have to be promptly cleared of the inmates. How were these persons to be provided for?

7. Raises and men of means having adequate compounds or gardens will, as already provided in the existing Regulation, be allowed to maintain a private hospital for the sick and a private set of segregation huts in their own compounds or gardens whenever there is space sufficient for the complete segregation of the family from all risk of infection arising from the originally inhabited house or from infected houses in the neighbourhood. There the sick would be looked after by their own families, persons brought into direct contact with the sick being kept apart from those who were only open to suspicion merely as coming from the same house. The treatment will be that preferred by the family; no attempt to force any particular system of treatment on the sick or their friends would ever be tolerated. The Civil Surgeon will, however, have to be satisfied beforehand with the adequacy of the arrangements proposed for segregation and disinfection, and must be permitted from time to time to see that those arrangements are being duly kept up. The owners of such private hospitals and camps will also be required to meet the cost of such external guards as the District Magistrate deemed necessary. Of course in all such private establishments the arrangements for purda women would be made by the owners themselves.

8. In the case of respectable people of smaller means the system of associated family, caste, or class hospitals and camps is the only resource. The sooner arrangements for such refuges are completed, the better. In all such association-camps suitable arrangements for purda women should be made. Families should not be broken up, but kept together. The treatment may be that desired by each family. Generally, in short, the arrangements already suggested for private camps will be reproduced with any necessary modifications approved by the Civil Surgeon.

9. For the poorest classes of all, of course public hospitals and segregation camps must be provided under the District Magistrate's orders. But here also every effort will be made to respect purda requirements. Both the management and treatment will be in the hands of the Civil Surgeon. But families will not be separated. Those who wish to attend on their sick will be separately housed in the hospital compound, and they will have free access to their sick both by night and by day.

10. At present it is quite unnecessary for private persons to go to any expense in building even temporary accommodation; all that is required is that a complete scheme for each town should be drawn up and approved by the District Magistrate and submitted for examination to the Plague Commission.

11. When a quarter of a town or a group of houses has to be vacated, the owners will be allowed to make arrangements for the watch and ward of their property, and the Magistrate will give every assistance in his power to guard such property from theft.

12. The Lieutenant-Governor pointed out that he was entrusting the the first line of defence to the people themselves. If it were found that cases of suspected plague were concealed and not reported, then it would be necessary to institute search parties. The police and possibly the troops would have to be called in, and much trouble would be inflicted on the townsmen generally. But they would have brought this on themselves by failing to fulfil the obligation now laid upon them.

13. For the rest the Lieutenant-Governor hopes Municipal Commissioners and District Magistrates will devote special attention to flushing and cleaning drains and privies and to closing absolutely all well-privies, proper provision for the wants of the poorer classes being made. It seems to him waste of time and money to whitewash the outside of houses, as has been done generally in Bihar, and whitewashing the inside at this season is more dangerous to health than leaving things alone. Their duty is to get rid of "real filth," so that the plague, if it came, might be combated under the most favourable conditions.

14. In the case of Patna the Lieutenant-Governor thought it necessary to give a warning. There is no doubt that much of the agitation there was factious—got up by evil-designing persons to embarrass the Government. His Honour warned such persons that they were well known to the authorities, and that any repetition of such tactics would lead to their being very summarily and severely dealt with.

15. In the matter of the village rules certain modifications have been made after consultation with the local officers, which appear in the Regulations appended. It is deemed unnecessary to include in the Regulations matters that are more properly dealt with by executive orders. To do so only confuses the mind of the less intelligent members of the public.

16. It will be necessary, however, as a check upon reporting, to provide that no interments or cremations shall take place in other than duly registered and licensed cemeteries and burning ghâts. This is already part of the ordinary municipal law, though not brought universally into force. No interference with corpses or funeral ceremonies, is, however, at present anywhere called for.

17. The orders explained in this Resolution render it unnecessary to deal separately with the following memorials that have been received by Government, viz.—

Memorial without date, from the residents of the district of Muzaffarpur.
Ditto ditto, from the citizens of Darbhanga.
Ditto dated 24th January 1898, from the Hindus and Muhammadans of Patna.
Ditto without date, from the residents of Arrah.
Ditto ditto ditto of Gaya.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST THE IMPORTATION OF PLAGUE INTO MUNICIPAL TOWNS AND CANTONMENTS.

PLAGUE REGULATION—NUMBER 10.

Calcutta, the 8th February 1898.

IN exercise of the powers conferred by sub-section (1) of section 2 of the Epidemic Diseases Act, 1897, and by the Notification of the Government of India, in the Home Department, No. 302, dated 4th February 1897, and in supersession of the rules contained in Parts III and IV of Regulation No. 9, dated the 10th November 1897, except in so far as those rules relate to the town of Calcutta, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to prescribe the following regulation for preventing the importation of the bubonic plague into municipal towns and cantonments.

1. Date of taking effect.—This regulation shall come into force at once.

2. Health Officer defined.—The words "Health Officer" in the following rules mean the Civil Surgeon of the district, and include a Civil Medical Officer, a Military Medical Officer in charge of a cantonment, an Assistant Surgeon in medical charge of a district or subdivision or a municipal dispensary, and any medical practitioner appointed by the District Magistrate under Rule 3.

3. Appointment of Health Officers.—In every municipality or cantonment where the Commissioner considers it necessary, the District Magistrate shall appoint a Health Officer, either by name or by virtue of office, to devise and carry out, under the District Magistrate's general directions, all measures necessary to prevent the spread of the plague, and shall fix his pay, or where he is already a salaried officer of Government may with the approval of Government fix a reasonable deputation allowance to be paid to him for this extra duty. He may also, subject to the general instructions of the Commissioner, appoint such subordinate staff to assist the Health Officer in carrying out his duties as he may consider necessary, and may fix their pay. For the purposes of this rule, the District Magistrate may group municipalities and cantonments and may appoint a Health Officer and staff for the combined area. For every municipality or cantonment in which a Health Officer is appointed, the District Magistrate shall prepare a scheme showing in detail the arrangements for public, family, and caste hospitals and camps, medical staff, medicines, disinfectants, and the like, which would have to come into force in the event of plague breaking out, and shall submit the scheme for examination to the Secretary to the Plague Commission.

4. Appointment of Committee of Observation.—Every municipality or cantonment where the Commissioner may consider such action to be necessary shall be divided by the District Magistrate into circles, each containing three hundred houses, more or less, as may be convenient. For each such circle the District Magistrate shall appoint a Committee of Observation consisting of one Hindu, one Muhammadan, and one salaried registering officer.

5. Appointment of Medical Committee.—The District Magistrate shall also appoint for the whole of such municipality or cantonment a Medical Committee consisting of the Health Officer as President, one Hindu, and one Muhammadan, who shall, if possible, be medical practitioners, and one lady doctor.

6. Duties of Committee of Observation.—It shall be the duty of the Committee of Observation to report daily to the Health Officer, through the registering officer of the circle, all cases of unusual fever accompanied by glandular swellings which may occur in their circl among persons who have arrived within the preceding ten days from any infected area, or in houses where any such person may be or may have been staying.

7. Duties of Medical Committee.—If on a case of fever as described in Rule 6 being reported by the Committee of Observation the Health Officer is of opinion that further enquiry is necessary for the purpose of ascertaining whether the case is or is not one of plague, the Medical Committee shall visit the house in which the case has occurred, accompanied, if possible, by the Committee of Observation for the circle, and shall enquire into the case. If the patient is a female, any examination that may be necessary shall be conducted by the lady doctor. If the case is found to be one of plague it shall be dealt with under the rules contained in regulation number 11, which will then come into force as far as is necessary for the purposes of the particular case.

8. General sanitary precautions.—In any municipality or cantonment the District Magistrate or any Magistrate authorized by him in this behalf, or the Cantonment Magistrate, may issue general orders that by a certain specified date certain sanitary precautions of a simple nature, such as cleaning and proper ordering of latrines, flushing of drains and sewers, filling up of well-privies, removal of filth and rubbish, and the like, shall be carried out within any specified area, and all persons residing within such area shall be bound to give effect to these orders. If within such time such persons fail to carry out the operations specified in the notice, the Health Officer may, with the sanction of the District Magistrate or of the Cantonment Magistrate, enter upon the premises at any time between sunrise and sunset, after giving such notice of his intention as shall, under the circumstances, appear to him to be reasonable, and carry out the measures specified above: Provided that when an apartment is occupied by a female who, according to the custom of the country, does not appear in public, the Health Officer shall give at least one hour's notice of his intention to enter such apartment, and shall afford her every reasonable facility for withdrawing from such portion of the apartment as he may desire to enter. The expenses incurred may be recovered in the manner provided in sections 120 to 129, both inclusive, of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, from the persons who, in the opinion of the District Magistrate, may fairly be held responsible.

9. Insanitary premises and blocks of huts.—When any premises or any block of huts are in such a dangerously insanitary state as, in the opinion of the Health Officer, to make the inmates thereof especially liable to an attack of the bubonic plague, he may, with the previous sanction of the District Magistrate or Cantonment Magistrate, require the owner by notice to have the whole or any portion of such premises cleansed within a specified time in such manner as may appear to him necessary, and may in consultation, if necessary, with a competent engineer, direct the owner to remove all structures, partitions, erections or portions of house-walls which obstruct light and ventilation. If within such time the owner fails to carry out the operations specified in the notice, the Health Officer may enter upon the premises at any time between sunrise and sunset, after giving such notice of his intention as shall, under the circumstances, appear to him to be reasonable, and carry out the measures specified above: Provided that when an apartment is occupied by a female who, according to the custom of the country, does not appear in public, the Health Officer shall give at least one hour's notice of his intention to enter such apartment, and shall afford her every reasonable facility for withdrawing from such portion of the apartment as he may desire to enter. The expenses incurred may be recovered in the manner provided in sections 120 to 129, both inclusive, of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, from the owner or from the persons who, in the opinion of the Magistrate of the district, may fairly be held responsible.

10. Prohibition of rag-picking.—No person, except municipal or cantonment servants, shall pick up rags or other refuse in the streets or elsewhere; nor shall rags or refuse be transported, except under such conditions as may be prescribed by the Health Officer. Any person picking up rags or other refuse in the streets or elsewhere shall be liable to be arrested by the police. The District Magistrate or the Cantonment Magistrate may disinfect or at his discretion destroy any collection of rags in rag-pickers' houses or rag stores.

11. Provision of hospitals.—It shall be lawful for the District Magistrate or the Cantonment Magistrate to select a site or sites and erect hospitals thereon, or to convert any building, not being a place of worship, into a hospital for the isolation of patients suffering from the plague, in any locality which, in the opinion of the Health Officer, may be suitable for the purpose. In such hospital separate and suitable accommodation shall be provided for females, having regard to their rank and station in life. The owner or lessee of any such site or building shall not be entitled to claim from the District Magistrate or Cantonment Magistrate anything beyond a reasonable rent for the period during which the site or building may remain in his occupation. Before vacating the building, the District Magistrate or Cantonment Magistrate shall cause it to be thoroughly cleansed and disinfected.

12. Provision of camps.—It shall be lawful for the District Magistrate or the Cantonment Magistrate to select a site or sites and erect thereon temporary camps, or to convert any building, not being a place of worship, into a camp for the segregation of persons suspected to be infected with plague, or for the residence of persons compelled to vacate their houses under these Regulations. The owner or lessee of any such site or building shall not be entitled to claim from the District Magistrate or Cantonment Magistrate anything beyond a reasonable rent for the period during which the site or building may remain in his occupation. Before vacating the building, the District Magistrate or Cantonment Magistrate shall cause it to be thoroughly cleansed and disinfected, both internally and externally.

13. Reports from factories.—Every occupier of a factory shall, on employing in his factory any person who has come from any area infected with bubonic plague, immediately report in writing to the Magistrate of the district the fact of such employment and the name and address of the person employed.

The word "factory" used in this rule means any premises wherein is carried on any process for, or incidental to, making, altering, repairing, ornamenting, finishing or otherwise adapting for use or sale any article or part of an article, and wherein steam, water, or other mechanical power is used in aid of any such process.

14. Report by householder.—If there is resident in any house a person who has come within ten days from any area infected with bubonic plague, the owner of such house or, if the owner be non-resident, the person who collects the rent of the house or any part of it, shall report forthwith to a member of the Committee of Observation (1) all cases of fever such as is described in Rule 6 which may occur among the residents of the house, and (2) the death of any person in the house from any such fever.

15. Report by medical practitioner.—Any medical practitioner who attends in any house a case which he has reason to believe to be a case of bubonic plague shall forthwith report such illness to the Committee of Observation or to the Health Officer.

16. Family hospitals and camps.—When a family or an association of families desire to provide a hospital and camp for the reception of the members of such family or association of families who may be attacked by plague or exposed to infection, the family or association of families may apply through any of its members to the Health Officer for permission to make use of such hospital and camp. If after such enquiry as may be necessary the Health Officer approves of the site and arrangements proposed for management, he shall give a written license for such hospital and camp. In the case of well-to-do families having large quarters or separate garden-houses, the hospitals and camps may be allowed in such places if otherwise suitable. It shall be the duty of the applicant to arrange so that the hospital and camp may be constructed without delay as soon as a case of plague occurs. All such hospitals and camps shall provide suitable accommodation for women who, according to the custom of the country, do not appear in public. Provided that the number of family hospitals and camps sanctioned in any town or cantonment shall not exceed the number that can be adequately guarded and supervised, and the license of a family hospital or camp may be withdrawn at any time if the Health Officer considers the maintenance of such hospital or camp to be objectionable or dangerous to the health of the neighbourhood.

17. Caste hospitals and camps.—When the members of a particular caste desire to provide a hospital and camp for the reception of those among them who may be attacked by plague or exposed to infection, they may apply as above to the Health Officer for permission to make use of such hospital or camp. If after such enquiry as may be necessary the Health Officer approves of the site and arrangements proposed for management, he shall give a written license for such hospital and camp. It shall be the duty of the applicant to arrange so that the hospital and camp may be constructed without delay as soon as a case of plague occurs. All such hospitals and camps shall provide suitable accommodation for women who, according to the custom of the country, do not appear in public.

18. Caste hospitals and camps for the respectable poor.—If on application being made under Rule 17 the District Magistrate is satisfied that the persons making the application are too poor to provide a hospital and camp for themselves, he may cause the necessary arrangements to be made at the cost of, or with help from, the Municipal Fund.

PREVENTION OF THE SPREAD OF BUBONIC PLAGUE IN MUNICIPAL TOWNS AND CANTONMENTS.

PLAGUE REGULATION No. 11.

Calcutta, the 8th February 1898.

In exercise of the powers conferred by sub-section (1) of section 2 of the Epidemic Diseases Act, 1897, and by the Notification of the Government of India in the Home Department No. 302, dated 4th February 1897, and in supersession of the rules contained in Parts III and IV of Plague Notification No. 9 of the 10th November 1897, except in so far as those rules relate to the town of Calcutta, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to prescribe the following regulation for preventing the spread of the bubonic plague in municipal towns and cantonments :—

1. Date of taking effect.—Except as provided in Rule 7 of Regulation 10, this regulation shall come into force in any Municipality or Cantonment from the date on which the Magistrate of the district may, by proclamation issued with the sanction of Government, declare the plague to be prevalent there, and shall continue in force until by a similar proclamation he shall declare the plague to have ceased.

2. Health Officer defined.—The words "Health Officer" in the following rules mean the Civil Surgeon of the district, and include a Civil Medical Officer, a Military Medical Officer in charge of a Cantonment, an Assistant Surgeon in medical charge of a district or subdivision or a municipal dispensary, and any medical practitioner appointed by the District Magistrate under Rule 3.

3. Appointment of Health Officers.—In any Municipality or Cantonment where plague has been declared to be prevalent, the District Magistrate, subject to the general instructions of the Commissioner, shall appoint as many Health Officers as may be necessary to prevent the spread of the disease, and shall fix their pay. He shall also appoint such subordinate staff to assist the Health Officers in carrying out their duties as he may consider necessary and shall fix their pay.

4. Appointment of Medical Committee.—For each division of the Municipality or Cantonment for which a Health Officer is appointed, or for such smaller area as he may consider necessary, the District Magistrate shall also appoint a Medical Committee consisting of the Health Officer as President, one Hindu and one Muhammadan, who shall, if possible, be medical practitioners, and one lady doctor.

5. Procedure in case of suspected plague.—When the Health Officer has reason to believe that a case of plague has occurred in a house, he shall proceed with, if possible, the members of the Medical Committee, to enquire into the case. The owner and occupier of the house shall permit the Health Officer to enter his premises and examine any person whom such Health Officer has reason to believe to be infected with bubonic plague. In case of resistance or refusal the Health Officer may call in the Police Officer in charge of the station, who may arrest without warrant any person offering active resistance and shall take such other steps as may be necessary to give effect to the rule. If the person is a female, the examination shall be made through female agency.

6. Segregation.—(1) If, on inquiry under the last preceding rule, the Health Officer finds that a fatal case of plague has occurred in the house or that any person therein is suffering from or infected with plague, he shall, in the latter case, cause such person to be removed to a hospital for treatment. He shall also, in either case, cause the other occupants of the house in which such person resides and all occupants of those neighbouring houses which are likely to have become infected to be removed to a segregation camp and to be detained under observation for ten days. The District Magistrate, or the Cantonment Magistrate, may grant subsistence allowance at rates suitable to their station in life, to persons detained under this rule.

(2) When family hospitals and camps or caste hospitals and camps have been provided under Rules 16, 17 and 18 of Plague Regulation number 10, sick or suspected persons may, if they so desire, and if accommodation is available, be removed to such hospitals or camps. In the case of females who, by the custom of the country, do not appear in public, their transport to the hospital or camp shall be arranged for in such a manner as to preserve their parda.

(3) In family and caste hospitals the patients may be treated on such system and by such doctors as they or their friends may desire.

(4) In all hospitals separate and suitable accommodation shall be provided for females and they shall, so far as may be possible, be treated by female agency.

(5) In all hospitals, the relatives, friends, hakims, baids and priests of sick persons shall be allowed free access to them at all times, subject to such precautions as the Health Officer may consider necessary.

(6) If in any case a person removed to a public or family or caste hospital is accompanied by friends or attendants, the Health Officer may require so many of them as are not in personal attendance on the patient to live in the immediate neighbourhood of the hospital in segregation huts or tents provided for the purpose, and to remain in such place until they receive permission from the Health Officer to depart.

(7) If a person is attacked with bubonic plague while so segregated, the Health Officer shall remove such person to a public or family or caste hospital, and may treat his friends and attendants as provided in the preceding rule.

(8) All hospitals and camps shall be suitably guarded, and in the case of family and caste hospitals and camps the arrangements for guarding must be approved by the District Magistrate, and their cost will be met by the persons on whose application the hospital or camp was sanctioned.

(9) Family and caste hospitals or camps may be closed by order of the District Magistrate if the Health Officer reports that the conditions on which such hospitals or camps were sanctioned are not complied with, or that their continuance is objectionable or a source of danger to the neighbourhood.

7. Disinfection and cleansing of houses, etc., by Health Officer.—In any house in which a case of plague has occurred, the Health Officer shall take measures for the disinfection and cleansing of the house, the destruction of bedding, clothing and articles of a similar nature, the improvement of the sanitary condition of the premises, the removal, in consultation, if possible, with a competent engineer, of all partitions, erections or portions of house-walls which obstruct light and ventilation, and other sanitary precautions. The District Magistrate on the report of the Health Officer may order the burning or destruction of any hut or other temporary structure, if disinfection cannot be satisfactorily effected otherwise, awarding compensation to persons who are so poor as to be unable to replace at their own expense the structure that has been burnt or destroyed.

8. Right of entry.—The owner and occupier of any house in which a case of plague has occurred shall permit the Health Officer and his staff to enter his house or premises for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the preceding rule. In case of resistance or refusal the Health Officer may call in the Police Officer in charge of the station, who may arrest without warrant any person offering active resistance and shall take such further steps as may be necessary to give effect to the rule. Provided that, when an apartment is occupied by a female who, according to the custom of the country, does not appear in public, the Health Officer shall not enter such an apartment without giving notice and affording time to such female to withdraw.

9. Evacuation of street or quarter.—If bubonic plague has become prevalent in a portion of a Municipality or Cantonment, the Magistrate of the district, or the Cantonment Magistrate, may, with the sanction of the Commissioner, direct the inhabitants of any street, muhalla or other locality to vacate their houses and to remove to a temporary settlement at a distance from the infected quarter. The District Magistrate, or the Cantonment Magistrate, may, when necessary, provide such persons with temporary accommodation. The Health Officer shall arrange for the thorough disinfection and cleansing of the empty premises, and no person shall be permitted to return until the premises have been certified to be free from infection.

10. Watch and ward of houses.—Whenever houses are vacated under Rules 6 (1), and 9, each householder shall be permitted to make suitable arrangements for the care of his house and property during his absence, provided that the house is not occupied. He may remove any valuable property or place seals upon it, and the District Magistrate or Cantonment Magistrate, as the case may be, will arrange for the watch and ward of empty houses, and will see that they are properly padlocked or secured.

11. Duty of compliance.—A person dealt with under the foregoing rules, and any person who may be removed to a hospital in a Cantonment by order of the Military Medical authorities, shall comply with any directions that may be given to him by the Health Officer with regard to his removal to, and residence in, an observation shed, public or private hospital or place of segregation, and with respect to disinfecting or burning of bedding, clothing and articles of a similar nature, or with respect to any other sanitary matter. He shall not depart from any such place without the written permission of the Health Officer.

12. Disposal of dead.—The friends of the deceased shall be permitted to dispose of the corpse by cremation or burial in accordance with their religious practices, but they shall obey the directions of the Health Officer or other sanitary or executive authority as to the route and method of removing the corpse to the burial or cremation place. In the event of the failure or refusal of relatives or friends of the deceased to dispose of the body, the Health Officer shall dispose of it in accordance with the religion of the deceased. The corpses of Europeans or Muhammadans who die of plague shall be buried, if possible, at least six feet deep. The coffin and cloth used to cover the corpse, when not interred with the corpse, shall be destroyed. In cases where cremation is the custom, the body shall be completely burned at the usual burning ghât or other isolated locality in accordance with custom, the cloths brought in contact with the body being either burnt according to custom or disinfected.

13. Ambulances.—The District Magistrate, or the Cantonment Magistrate, shall provide suitable conveyances, painted in a conspicuous manner, for the free carriage of persons suffering, or suspected to be suffering, from the plague, and it shall be lawful to drive or carry such conveyances through any public or private thoroughfare.

14. Disinfection of public conveyances.—Any conveyance, public or private, that has been used by a person infected with, or suspected of being infected with, plague, shall be thoroughly disinfected and exposed to air and sunlight for not less than 24 hours before being again used, and all articles of furniture belonging to it, which in the opinion of the Health Officer cannot be properly disinfected, shall be destroyed by fire.

15. Compensation.—The District Magistrate, or the Cantonment Magistrate, may, in his discretion, pay compensation to any person who has sustained substantial loss or damage by reason of anything done under these regulations; provided, however, that no person shall be entitled as of right to claim any compensation whatsoever. In deciding claims to compensation, the Magistrate, or the Cantonment Magistrate, shall consult the Medical Committee, but shall not be bound to follow their advice.

16. Control.—All powers conferred upon the Health Officer or the Cantonment Magistrate by these rules shall be exercised subject to the general control of the District Magistrate.

17. Delegation of powers.—All or any of the powers of the District Magistrate may, with the sanction of Government, be exercised by any other gazetted officer of Government.

18. Expenses.—All expenses incurred in carrying out these rules shall, in the first instance, be paid from the Municipal Fund or from loans made under the Local Authorities (Emergency) Loans Act, 1897; but the District Magistrate, or the Cantonment Magistrate, may recover from any person any amount which such person would, under similar circumstances, be liable to pay to the Commissioners under the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, or the Cantonment Act or Rules, as the case may be.

4. Subject to any rules which may be made under section 16, the Local Government may appoint any Medical Officer of the Government or other qualified Medical man to be an Inspector of Lepers and any person to be a Superintendent of a Leper Asylum, with such establishment as may, in its opinion, be necessary, and every Inspector or Superintendent so appointed shall be deemed to be a public servant.

13. Two or more members of the Board, one of whom shall be the Medical Officer, shall, once at least in every three months, together inspect the leper asylum for which they are constituted, and see and examine (a) every leper therein admitted since the last inspection, together with the order for his admission, and (b), as far as circumstances will permit, every other leper therein, and shall enter in a book to be kept for the purpose any remarks which they may deem proper in regard to the management and condition of the asylum and the lepers therein.

Inspection by Board.

14 Any two members of the Board, one of whom shall be the Medical Officer, may at any time, by an order in writing in Form E set forth in the schedule and signed by them, direct the discharge from the leper asylum of any leper detained therein under the provisions of this Act.

PACIFIC OCEAN—DIANA SHOAL

An unsuccessful search.

NOTICE No. 790 of 1897 issued by the British Admiralty is republished.

Information has been received from Captain A. Mostyn-Field, H.M. Surveying Vessel Penguin, that, in August 1897, he sounded over an area embracing 80 miles in longitude and nearly 40 miles in latitude, in the vicinity of Diana shoal, originally reported in 1852 as having a depth of 6 feet on it, and as being situated in lat. 8° 40′ N., long. 157° 20′ W.

The Penguin spent 5 days in the search, obtaining soundings of from 2,560 to 2,946 fathoms at distances of 7 to 10 miles apart, and observing no indication of a shoal in any part of the locality.

In view of the above, and the fact that schooners have plied for many years between Honolulu and Fanning island over the position of the shoal, and that it has not been seen since the first vague report, Diana shoal has been expunged from the Admiralty Charts.

No cattle-disease is reported except from places in Bankura, Hooghly, Jessore, Purnea and Lohardaga.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 2·5° lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product, even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal 8vo. pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G.; Vol. IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI); but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the Vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and, as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

PACIFIC OCEAN—Diana shoal.

An unsuccessful search.

Notice No. 790 of 1897 issued by the British Admiralty is republished.

Information has been received from Captain A. Mostyn-Field, H.M. Surveying Vessel Penguin, that, in August 1897, he sounded over an area embracing 80 miles in longitude and nearly 40 miles in latitude, in the vicinity of Diana shoal, originally reported in 1852 as having a depth of 6 feet on it, and as being situated in lat. 8° 40′ N., long. 157° 20′ W.

The Peguin spent 5 days in the search, obtaining soundings of from 2,560 to 2,946 fathoms at distances of 7 to 10 miles apart, and observing no indication of a shoal in any part of the locality.

In view of the above, and the fact that schooners have plied for many years between Honolulu and Fanning island over the position of the shoal, and that it has not been seen since the first vague report, Diana shoal has been expunged from the Admiralty Charts.

(1) Passage through the Great Barrier Reef, near the Howick group.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 20 of 1897) that Captain W. Dawson, of H.M.S. Waterwitch, reports having sounded out the passage through the Great Barrier Reef, which lies between Stapleton (X) Islet (in lat. 14° 19′ 12″ S., long. 144° 51′ 3″ E.) and No. 1 sandbank.

The passage, which will be known hereafter as "Waterwitch Passage," is clear of dangers and carries a depth of 14 to 19 fathoms.

Vessels proceeding to sea from the Inner Route should pass between Bewick and Ingham Islands, and, having made Stapleton Island, leave it on the starboard hand ½ mile distant; then steering N. 10° E. (mag.) for 7·4 miles will bring No. 1 sandbank abeam. It is close to the edge of the reef, and should be passed on the starboard hand ½ mile distant. The passage is 1¼ miles wide, but the reef on the west side of it should be given a good berth, as it was not sounded off. Heavy tide-rips and strong tidal currents are met with in the passage, but on the sandbank side it is always smooth. The northern edge of the reef west of Stapleton Island bears N. 62½° W. from Stapleton. The channel between the two is 2·2 miles wide, and quite clear of dangers.

Fairway beacon with illuminated gauge.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 22 of 1897) that an automatic clock-face tide guage, illuminated at night, is exhibited from the Fairway Beacon at the outer edge of the bar at Cairns Harbour. The beacon from which False Cape bears S. 79° 30′ E. and the front leading light S. 24° W. is placed in a depth of 15 feet at low-water springs, and is 150 feet from the line of lights and beacons marking the centre of the bar cutting. It is to be left on the port hand when entering.

The tide guage indicates the height of tide above low-water datum from 1 foot to 11 feet by means of a pointer moving round a clock-face dial looking seaward. The gauge does not indicate below 1 foot nor above 11 feet, the pointer resting at those points, so that 1 foot should be interpreted 1 foot or under and 11 feet as 11 feet and over.

The available depth in the cutting will be obtained by adding 12′ 6″ to the height shown by the guage

The light will be visible in clear weather at a distance of 5 miles, except between the bearings of W. S. W. and S. S. E., between which bearings the direct light is obscured, and the frosted clock-face is only visible.

The old red Fairway Buoy has been removed.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

The 15th February 1898.

No. 23.—Notification.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 5 (b) and (c) of the Calcutta Electric Lighting Act, 1895, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is pleased to make the following regulations.

J. G. H. GLASS,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

CALCUTTA ELECTRIC LIGHTING REGULATIONS.

CALCUTTA ELECTRIC LIGHTING ACT, NO. IX OF 1895.

CALCUTTA ELECTRIC LIGHTING REGULATIONS:—

(A), for securing the safety of the public, and
(B), for ensuring a proper and sufficient supply of electrical energy.

Definitions.

In the following regulations the expression "the License" means the Calcutta Electric Lighting License.

The expression "the undertakers" means the undertakers for the purposes of the License.

The expression "consumer's wires" means any electric lines on a consumer's premises which are connected with the service lines of the undertakers at the consumer's terminals.

The expression "aerial line" means any electric line which is placed above ground and in the open air.

The expression "pressure" means the difference of electrical potential between any two conductors through which a supply of energy is given, or between any part of either conductor and the earth; and

(a) Where the conditions of the supply are such that the pressure may at any time exceed 500 volts if continuous, or 250 volts if alternating, but cannot exceed 3,000 volts, whether continuous or alternating, the supply shall be deemed a high-pressure supply.

(b) Where the conditions of the supply are such that the pressure may on either system exceed 3,000 volts, the supply shall be deemed an extra high-pressure supply.

The expressions "high pressure" and "extra high pressure," respectively, are used in relation to electric lines, conductors, circuits, and apparatus, according to the conditions of the supply delivered through the same or particular portions thereof.

Where these regulations require any metallic body to be "efficiently connected with earth," it shall be connected with the general mass of earth in such manner as will ensure at all times an immediate and safe discharge of electrical energy.

Other expressions to which meanings are assigned in the License or in the above-mentioned Act have the same respective meanings in these regulations.

A.—REGULATIONS FOR SECURING THE SAFETY OF THE PUBLIC.

General.

Pressure of supply to consumers.

(1) The pressure of a supply delivered to any consumer shall not exceed 250 volts at any pair of terminals, except with the express approval of the Local Government. Such approval will only be given for special purposes and on the joint application of the consumer and the undertakers, and the supply will be subject to such further regulations as the Local Government may, from time to time, prescribe.

Pressure of supply to transforming apparatus.

(2) The pressure of a supply delivered to a transforming station or to transforming apparatus on a consumer's premises may exceed 250 volts, but shall not exceed the limits of high-pressure.

Limitations of extra high-pressure supply.

(3) An extra high pressure supply shall not be given except to distributing stations or other premises in the sole occupation of the undertakers, and with the written consent of the Local Government and subject to such regulations and conditions as the Local Government may prescribe.

Maximum current in conductors.

(4) The maximum working current in any conductor shall not be sufficient to raise the temperature of the conductor or any part thereof to such an extent as to materially alter the physical condition or specific resistance of the insulating covering, if any, or in any case to raise such temperature to a greater extent than 30° Fahr.; the cross sectional area and conductivity at joints must be sufficient to avoid local heating, and the joints must be protected against corrosion.

Minimum size of conductors.

(5) The sectional area of the conductor in any electric line laid or erected in any street, after the date of these regulations, shall not be less than the area of a circle of $\frac{1}{10}$th of an inch diameter, and where the conductor is formed of a strand of wires, each separate wire shall be at least as large as No. 20 standard wire gauge.

Specification of insulating materials.

(6) All material used for insulating electric lines or apparatus shall be of the best quality, and thoroughly durable and efficient, having regard to the conditions of its use. Suitable provision shall be made for the protection of the insulating material against injury or removal.

If the protection so provided be wholly or partly metallic, it shall be efficiently connected with earth.

Insulation test of electric lines.

(7) Every main shall be tested for insulation after having been placed in position, and before it is used for the purposes of supply, the testing pressure being at least 200 volts, and the undertakers shall duly record the results of the tests of each main or section of a main.

Maintenance of insulation.

(8) The insulation of every complete circuit used for the supply of energy, including all machinery, apparatus, and devices forming part of, or in connection with, such circuit, shall be so maintained that the leakage current shall not, under any conditions, exceed one-thousandth part of the maximum supply current: and suitable means shall be provided for the immediate indication and localisation of leakage.

Every leakage shall be remedied without delay.

Every such circuit shall be tested for insulation at least once in every week, and the undertakers shall duly record the results of the testings.

Provided that, where the Local Government have approved of any part of any electric circuit being connected with earth, the provisions of this regulation shall not apply to that circuit so long as the connection with earth exists.

High-pressure conductors to be covered.

(9) Every high-pressure conductor laid after the date of these regulations shall be continuously covered with insulating material to a thickness of not less than $\frac{1}{10}$th part of an inch, and in cases where the extreme difference of potential in the circuit exceeds 2,000 volts, the thickness of insulating material shall not be less in inches, or parts of an inch, than the number obtained by dividing the number expressing the volts by 20,000.

Testing of insulation of all parts of any high-pressure circuit.

(10) A high-pressure circuit shall not be brought into use unless the insulation of every part thereof has withstood the continuous application, during one hour, of pressure exceeding the maximum pressure to which it is intended to be subjected in use, that is to say, in the case of every electric line, a pressure twice the said maximum pressure, and in the case of every machine, device, or apparatus, a pressure 50 per cent. greater than the said maximum pressure.

The undertakers shall duly record the results of each test.

Quick-acting cut-off for high-pressure lines, &c.

(11) Every high-pressure electric line, conductor, or other apparatus shall be protected by a suitable automatic quick-acting cut-off:

Provided that it shall not be incumbent upon the undertakers to provide such a cut-off for the outer conductor of a concentric main which is, with the approval of the Local Government, efficiently connected with earth.

(12). In every case where a high-pressure supply is transformed for the purpose of supply to one or more consumers, some suitable automatic and quick-acting means shall be provided to protect the consumer's wires from any accidental contact with, or leakage from, the high-pressure system, either within or without the transforming apparatus.

Transformers.

(13). A high-pressure electric line shall not be used for the transmission of more than 300,000 watts, or, in the case of an aerial line, 50,000 watts, except with the consent, in writing, of the Local Government, and efficient means shall be provided to prevent this limit being at any time exceeded.

Limit of power in high-pressure electric line.

(14). Where any portion of any electric line, or any support for an electric line, is exposed in such a position as to be liable to injury from lightning, it shall be efficiently protected against such injury.

Protection from lightning.

(15). Where any accident by explosion or fire, or any other accident of such kind as to have caused, or to be likely to have caused, loss of life, or personal injury, has occurred at any part of any electric line or work, the undertakers shall give immediate notice thereof to the Local Government.

Accidents to be reported.

Aerial Lines where erected with the necessary Consents.

(16). Every aerial line shall be attached to supports at intervals not exceeding 200 feet wide where the direction of the line is straight, or 150 feet where the direction is curved, or where the line makes a horizontal angle at the point of support.

Maximum intervals between supports.

(17). Every support of an aerial line shall be of a durable material, and properly stayed against forces due to wind pressure, change of direction of the line, or unequal lengths of span. The factor of safety shall be for aerial lines and suspending wires at least 6, and for all other parts of the structure at least 12, taking the maximum possible wind pressure at 50 lbs. per square foot.

Supports, construction and erection of.

Every support, if of metal, shall be efficiently connected with earth.

(18). Aerial lines shall be attached to insulators, and shall be so guarded that they cannot fall away from the support. Conductors covered with insulating material shall not be attached to the insulators by uninsulated metal binders.

Attachment of aerial lines.

(19). An aerial line shall not in any part thereof be at a less height from the ground than 18 feet, or, where it crosses a street, 30 feet, or within 5 feet measured horizontally, or 7 feet measured vertically, from any building or erection other than a support for the line, except where brought into a building for the purpose of supply.

Height from ground and distance from buildings, &c.

(20). Service lines from aerial lines shall be led as directly as possible to insulators firmly attached to some portion of the consumer's premises which is not accessible to any person without the use of a ladder or other special appliance, and from this point of attachment they shall be enclosed and protected in accordance with the subsequent regulations as to electric lines on the consumer's premises. Every portion of any service line which is outside a building, but is within 7 feet from the building, shall be completely enclosed in stout India-rubber tubing.

Service lines from aerial lines.

(21). Where an aerial line crosses a street, the angle between the line and the direction of the street at the place of crossing shall not be less than 60,° and the spans shall be as short as possible.

Angle of crossing thoroughfares.

(22). Where an aerial line crosses, or is in proximity to, any metallic substance, precautions shall be taken by the undertakers against the possibility of the line coming into contact with the metallic substance, or of the metallic substance coming into contact with the line by breakage or otherwise.

Crossing wires, &c.

(23). Every high-pressure aerial line shall be efficiently suspended by means of insulating ligaments to suspending wires, so that the weight of the line does not produce any sensible stress in the direction of its length. All suspending wires, if of iron or steel, shall be galvanised.

Suspending wires.

(24). In the case of any high-pressure aerial line exceeding one half mile in total length, means shall be provided whereby the pressure may be discharged from any portion of the line erected over, or alongside of, any building or buildings without loss of time in case of fire or other emergency.

Discharge of pressure in case of fire.

(25). Every aerial line, including its supports and all the structural parts and electrical appliances and devices belonging to, or connected with, the line, shall be duly and efficiently supervised and maintained as regards both electrical and mechanical conditions.

Maintenance.

(26). An aerial line shall not be permitted to remain erected after it has ceased to be used for the supply of energy, unless the undertakers intend, within a reasonable time, again to take it into use.

Unused aerial lines to be removed.

Electric Lines other than Aerial Lines.

27. All conduits, pipes, casings, and street boxes used as receptacles for electric lines shall be constructed of durable material, and where laid under carriage ways shall be of ample strength to prevent damage from heavy traffic; and reasonable means shall be taken by the undertakers to prevent accumulation of gas in such receptacles.

Construction of receptacles for electric lines.

(28). Where any electric line crosses, or is in proximity to any metallic substance, special precautions shall be taken by the undertakers against the possibility of any electrical discharge to the metallic substance from the line or from any metal conduit, pipe, or casing enclosing the line.

Crossing pipes, &c.

(29). All metal conduits, pipes, or casings containing any electric line shall be efficiently connected with earth; and shall be so jointed and connected across all street boxes and other openings as to make good electrical connection throughout their whole length.

Electric continuity of metal conduits, pipes, or casings.

(30). Where isolated lengths of metal conduit, pipe, or casing are used for the protection of any electric line at road crossings or similar positions, special precautions shall be taken to prevent the possibility of any electrical charging thereof.

Precautions against charging of short lengths of pipe, &c.

(31). Where the conductors of electric lines placed in any conduit are not continuously covered with insulating material, they shall be secured in position, and no unfixed uninsulated material of a conducting nature shall be contained in the conduit. No such conductor shall be at a higher potential than 300 volts.

Precautions to be taken when bare conductors are used.

Adequate precautions shall also be taken to ensure that no accumulation of water shall take place in any part of the conduit, and to prevent any dangerous access of moisture to the conductors or the insulators.

In the case of any such electric lines laid in conduits, the insulators shall be so disposed that they can be readily inspected.

High-pressure lines laid above ground.

(32) Every portion of any high-pressure electric line placed above the surface of the ground, or in any subway not in the sole occupation of the undertakers, shall be completely enclosed either in a tube of highly insulating material embedded in brickwork, masonry, or cement concrete, or in strong metal casing efficiently connected with earth.

High-pressure lines laid in proximity to other electric lines or to the surface of the ground.

(33) Where any high-pressure electric line is laid beneath the surface of the ground, efficient means shall be taken to render it impossible that the surface of the ground or any neighbouring electric line or conductor shall become charged by leakage from the high-pressure electric line.

Street Boxes.

Street boxes.

(34) In addition to the provisions contained in Regulation 27 as to the construction of receptacles for electric lines, the following regulations shall be observed with respect to the construction of street boxes:—

(a) The covers of all street boxes shall be so secured that they cannot be opened except by means of a special appliance.

(b) The covers of all street boxes containing high-pressure apparatus, other than cables, shall be connected to strips of metal laid immediately underneath the adjacent roadway, and efficient means shall be taken to render it impossible that the covers or other exposed parts of these boxes, or any adjacent material forming the surface of the street, shall become electrically charged, whether by reason of leakage, defect, or otherwise.

(c) Where street boxes are used as transformer chambers, reasonable means shall be taken to prevent, as far as possible, any influx of water, either from the adjacent soil or by means of pipes; and in the case of any such street box exceeding one cubic yard in capacity, ample provision shall be made, by ventilation or otherwise, for the immediate escape of any gas, which may by accident have obtained access to the box, and for the prevention of danger from sparking.

(d) All street boxes shall be regularly inspected for the presence of gas, and if any influx or accumulation is discovered, the undertakers shall give immediate notice to the authority or company whose gas mains are laid in the neighbourhood of the street box.

Transforming Stations.

Transforming stations.

(35) Transforming stations, or points in a system of distribution, in which a high-pressure supply is transformed for the purpose of supply to consumers, and which are not on the consumer's premises, shall be established in suitable places which are in the sole occupation and charge of the undertakers.

Consumer's Premises.

Responsibility of undertakers for their lines, &c., on consumer's premises.

(36) The undertakers shall be responsible for all electric lines, fittings, and apparatus belonging to them, or under their control, which may be upon a consumer's premises, being maintained in a safe condition and in all respects fit for supplying energy.

Fire risks.

(37) In delivering the energy to a consumer's terminals, the undertakers shall exercise all due precautions, so as to avoid risk of causing fire on the premises.

(38) A suitable safety fuse or other automatic disconnector shall be inserted in each service line within a consumer's premises as close as possible to the point of entry, and contained within a suitable locked or sealed receptacle of fireproof construction, except in cases where the service line is protected by fuses in a street box.

Main fuses or disconnectors to be provided in a locked receptacle.

(39) All electric lines and apparatus placed on a consumer's premises shall be highly insulated and thoroughly protected against injury to the insulation or access of moisture, and any metal forming part of the electrict circuit, shall not, unless efficiently connected with earth, be exposed, so that it can be touched. All electric lines shall be so fixed and protected as to prevent the possibility of electrical discharge to any adjacent metallic substance.

Treatment of electric lines and apparatus on consumer's permises.

(40) Where the general supply of energy is a high-pressure supply, and transforming apparatus is installed on a consumer's premises, the whole of the high-pressure service lines, conductors and apparatus, including the transforming apparatus itself, so far as they are on the consumer's premises, shall be completely enclosed in solid walls, or in strong metal casing efficiently connected with earth, and securely fastened throughout.

Transformers and high-pressure apparatus to be enclosed in a metal.

(41) The undertakers shall not connect the wires and fittings on a consumer's premises with their mains unless they are reasonably satisfied that the connection would not cause a leakage from those wires and fittings exceeding one ten-thousandth part of the maximum supply current to the premises; and where the undertakers decline to make such connection, they shall serve upon the consumer a notice stating their reasons for so declining.

Connection to consumer not to be made where leakage would result.

(42) If the undertakers are reasonably satisfied, after making all proper examination by testing or otherwise, that a leakage exists at some part of circuit of a such extent as to be a source of danger, and that such leakage does not exist at any part of the circuit belonging to the undertakers, then and in such case any officer of the undertakers, duly authorised by them in writing, or, if the undertakers so require, an Electric Inspector, may, for the purpose of discovering whether the leakage exists at any part of a circuit within or upon any consumer's premises, by notice require the consumer at some reasonable time, after the service of the notice, to permit him to inspect and test the wires and fittings belonging to the consumer and forming part of the circuit.

Discontinuance of supply on discovery of leakage on consumer's premises.

In any case where the undertakers require the services of an Electric Inspector under this regulation, they shall pay him the prescribed fee.

If, on such testing, the officer or the Electric Inspector discovers a leakage from the consumer's wires exceeding one ten-thousandth part of the maximum supply current to the premises, or if the consumer does not give all due facilities for inspection and testing, the undertakers shall forthwith discontinue the supply of energy to the premises in question, giving immediate notice of the discontinuance to the consumer, and shall not recommence the supply until they are reasonably satisfied that the connection with earth has been removed. This regulation shall not affect any power contained in the order, or otherwise enabling the undertakers to discontinue the supply.

(43) If any consumer is dissatisfied with the action of the undertakers in refusing to give, or in discontinuing or in not recommencing the supply of energy to his premises, the wires and fittings of that consumer may, on his application, and on payment of the prescribed fee, be tested for the existence of leakage by an Electric Inspector.

This regulation shall be endorsed on every notice given under the provisions of either of the two last preceding regulations.

Arc Lighting.

Arc lamps to be guarded.

(44). All arc lamps shall be so guarded as to prevent pieces of ignited carbon or broken glass falling from them, and shall not be used in situations where there is any danger of the presence of explosive dust or gas.

Height from ground.

(45). Arc lamps used in any street for public lighting shall be so fixed as not to be in any part at a less height than 10 feet from the ground.

Cut-off switch.

(46). Arc lamps used in any street for private lighting shall be fixed so as not to be in any part at a less height than 8 feet from the ground, and shall be so screened as to prevent risk of contact with persons. A cut-off switch fixed in a suitable locked receptacle shall be provided for every high-pressure arc lamp, and such switch shall be of such pattern and construction as will provide—

(a) that the lamp can by its means be entirely disconnected from the supply circuit;

(b) that the switch itself can be safely operated in the dark without special precautions; and

(c) that there shall be no danger of any injurious electrical arcing, sparking, or heating being caused by the operation of the switch.

Penalties for default.

(47). If the undertakers make default in complying with any of the preceding regulations, they shall, on conviction, be liable to a penalty not exceeding Rs. 100 for every such default, and to a daily penalty not exceeding Rs. 100.

The recovery of a penalty under these regulations shall not affect the liability of the undertakers to make compensation in respect of any damage or injury which may be caused by reason of the default.

B.—Regulations for Securing a Proper and Sufficient Supply of Electrical Energy.

Notice of intention to supply through mains.

(1). Forty-eight hours at least before the undertakers are ready to commence to supply energy through any feeding, charging, or distributing main, they shall serve a notice upon the local authority of their intention to commence such supply.

Undertakers to provide constant supply.

(2). From and after the time when the undertakers commence to supply energy through any distributing main, they shall maintain a supply of sufficient power for the use of all the consumers for the time being entitled to be supplied from such main; and such supply shall, except so far as may be otherwise agreed upon from time to time between the local authority and the undertakers, be constantly maintained. Provided that, for the purposes of testing, or for any other purposes connected with the efficient working of the undertaking, the authority by whom the Electric Inspector is appointed may give permission to the undertakers to discontinue the supply at such intervals of time and for such periods as that authority may think expedient. When the supply is so discontinued, notice of such discontinuance, and of the probable duration thereof, shall be forthwith served upon the local authority.

Provisions as regards stopage.

(3). The system of distributing mains shall be so arranged that in any case it becomes necessary to stop the supply through any portion of a main for more than one hour, for the purposes of repairs, or for any other reason, the stoppage of supply will in no case exceed in amount a maximum power of 20,000 watts, or extend to the premises of more than 80 consumers, and in the case of every stoppage for more than one hour, reasonable notice shall be previously given by the undertakers to every consumer affected thereby except in cases of emergency.

Pressure in mains during supply.

(4). During the whole of the period when a supply of energy is required to be maintained by the undertakers in the distributing mains under the License and these regulations, it shall be maintained at a constant pressure in these regulations, termed the "Standard pressure;" but the standard pressure may be different for different portions of the distributing mains. Provided that the undertakers shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of this regulation so long as the pressure does not at any point vary more than 2 per cent. from the corresponding standard pressure in the case of a general supply at high-pressure or 3 per cent. in other cases, unless changes in pressure recur so frequently as to cause unsteadiness in the supply.

Fixing of standard pressure.

(5). The standard pressure shall be fixed by the undertakers, and notice of the amount of such standard pressure shall be given to the local authority before the undertakers commence to supply energy to consumers, and such standard pressure shall not be altered except by permission of the local authority, and upon such terms and conditions as the local authority may impose, and after public notice has been given during a period of one month, in such manner as the local authority may require, of the intention of the undertakers to apply for permission to alter the same. The undertakers may appeal against any decision of the local authority under this regulation to the Local Government, whose decision shall be final.

Declared pressure at consumer's terminals.

(6). Before commencing to give a supply of energy to any consumer, the undertakers shall declare to such consumer the constant pressure at which they propose to supply energy at his terminals. The pressure so declared at any pair of consumer's terminals shall not at any time be altered or departed from, except in consequence of any authorised alteration of the corresponding standard pressure. In the case of a transformation of energy on the consumer's premises, the undertakers shall give the consumer the choice of a supply at either of two different pressures, one of which shall be approximately half the other, and in such case the pressure so chosen by the consumer shall be the declared constant pressure.

Variation of pressure at consumer's terminals.

(7). The variation of pressure at any consumer's terminals shall not, under any conditions of the supply which the consumer is entitled to receive, exceed 4 per cent. from the declared constant pressure.

Penalty for default.

(8). If the undertakers make default in complying with any of these regulations as to supply, they shall, subject to the provisions of the License, be liable on conviction, to a penalty not exceeding Rs. 50 for every such default, and to a daily penalty not exceeding Rs. 50.

These regulations are made subject to the power of the Local Government to make such further or other regulations as they may think expedient; and nothing in these regulations shall be construed to authorise the undertakers to lay any electric line or work their undertaking otherwise than in accordance with the License and the principal Act, or to supply energy otherwise than by a system, for the time being, approved of by the Local Government under the License.

IRRIGATION DEPARTMENT.

The 14th February 1898.

No. 18.—Declaration.—Whereas it appears to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal that land is required to be taken by Government at the public expense for a public purpose, viz., for the deposit of dredged silt in the village of Dhappa-Maunpore, pargana Calcutta, zilla 24-Parganas, it is hereby declared that for the above purpose a piece of land measuring, more or less, 29 bighas 15 cottahs 13 chitaks of standard measurement, bounded on the north by the Nowbhang khal, on the south by land leased to Babu Gagan Chunder Sircar, on the east by land leased to Babu Gagan Chunder Sircar, and on the west by the Central Lake channel, is required within the aforesaid village of Dhappa-Maunpore.

This declaration is made, under the provisions of section 6 of Act I of 1894, to all whom it may concern.

REVISED WATER-RATE RULES FOR THE MIDNAPORE CANAL.

No. 19 —Notification.—In exercise of the powers conferred on him by sections 99 and 78 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to pass the following rules and to fix the undermentioned rates to be charged for water supplied from the Midnapore Canal. These rules and rates will supersede those now in force.

A. D. McArthur, Col., R.E.,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

1. The Divisional Canal Officer is responsible for maintaining the canal in an efficient state of repair, for providing drainage channels where necessary, and generally for all engineering work involved in its management, as well as for the distribution of water to lessees. The word "canal" is here used as defined in section 3 of the Act.

2. The Deputy Collector is responsible for the assessment and collection of water-rates accruing to Government from the canal.

3. Water shall not be distributed otherwise than on the application of a lessee, or to a person in whose favour a provisional license under Rule 15 has been issued. Such application may be made verbally or in writing to any subordinate in charge of that part of the canal from which water is required.

4. If any lessee apply for water to the Deputy Collector or one of his subordinates verbally, he shall be directed to address himself to an irrigation officer or subordinate. If he makes such an application in writing, his petition shall be forwarded direct by the zilladar, to whom it is addressed, to the Subdivisional Canal Officer in charge of that part of the canal from which the petitioner's village is supplied.

5. The Divisional Canal Officer shall map out the irrigable area into blocks in accordance with the natural features of the ground, and so determine that the whole block shall be irrigable from one outlet or from one set of outlets. So far as may be practicable, the blocks shall be separated by drainage lines.

6. Each block determined as above shall be numbered and recorded with its irrigable area in registers to be maintained by the Divisional Canal Officers and Deputy Collector. The blocks shall also be marked on maps to be maintained by the same officers.

7. Ordinarily leases for not more than five years may be granted for the whole irrigable area of a block, or, subject to the provisions of Rule 13, for definite parts of a block under the following conditions:—

I.—Ordinarily the whole irrigable area of any village, so far as situated within the block, must be included in the lease.

II.—All leases within one block shall be granted so that they shall expire on the same date.

III.—In order to equalize the areas to be dealt with in each year, the date of expiry of the leases in each block shall be determined by the Divisional Canal Officer in consultation with the Deputy Collector, so that, as far as practicable, one-fifth of the total area usually irrigated may fall out of lease in each year.

IV.—No permit shall be granted, when the supply of water must of necessity be delivered across an unleased area, unless a village channel exists, which, in the opinion of the Subdivisional Canal Officer, will deliver water without waste across the unleased area.

To enable the Special Deputy Collector to equalize the area which lapses each year leases in suitable blocks may be granted under the above conditions for six or seven years with the approval of the Executive Engineer.

8. The rates to be charged for water supplied between 16th June and 30th November, whether by flow or lift, to lessees on application shall be—

For a term of five years—Re. 1-8 per acre for each season. The area under long lease will, in future as a rule, be reduced to 75,000 square acres, i.e, 65,000 acres under the Midnapore weir, 8,000 under the Panchkura weir and 2,000 under the Tidal reaches.

For one year or for water supplied on a provisional license for which a permit for a term of years is not subsequently issued, Rs. 3 per acre.

Provided that the leases, whether new or renewals required for shorter terms than five years in order to develop the system of blocks as explained above, shall be charged Re. 1-8 per acre only

If water is available after the long leases have been irrigated, leases for a single watering may be given at eight annas per acre, the rate being payable in advance.

9. For the supply of water, when available, for winter crops, a rate of Rs. 2-8 per acre per season shall be charged.

10. For the unauthorized use of canal water a rate of Rs. 5 per acre, or such less rate as may be sanctioned by the Deputy Collector, shall be charged.

11. Application for water-leases under section 74 of the Act shall be presented to the Subdivisional Officer through the zilladar in whose charge the land lies.

12. Every application for a water-lease shall contain the following particulars:—

1.—Name and residence of applicant.
2. Name of pargana, mahal and village in which the land to be irrigated is situated.
3.—Total area for the irrigation of which the application is made and its boundaries, and if the lands to be irrigated lie in separate chaks, the name of each chak.
4.—Names of the raiyats whose lands are to be irrigated, and the quantity of land held by each.
5.—Name of the canal and number of distributary from which water is required.
6.—Signatures of the applicants.

13. A separate application must be presented for lands in each village, but tahsilalaida or other lands lying within the village boundary at the time of survey may be included.

14. Before a permit for a term of years is granted, the written consent of the Divisional Canal Officer shall be obtained, but permits for one year only and provisional licenses may be issued with the written assent of the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The Deputy Collector shall on the day of issue forward a copy of all permits granted to the Divisional Canal Officer.

Existing leases may, with the written consent of the Divisional Canal Officer, be extended for not more than three years, without enquiry or remeasurement, payments being made in accordance with the existing assessment.

15. When a water-lease is granted, a kabuliyat shall be taken in a form approved by Government, and a "permit" shall be given to the lessee or lessees in a form similar to that prescribed in Schedule C of the Act. Pending the completion of a lease, the zilladar may issue a provisional license for the supply of water to an area covered by an application.

16. On the issue of a permit or provisional license, the zilladar shall forward to the Subdivisional Canal Officer direct a requisition requesting him to supply water to the lessee on application. This requisition shall be kept by the Canal Officer till January 1st next following, and shall then be returned to the Deputy Collector. On the back should be noted the several dates on which the village was supplied with water. A fresh requisition shall be issued on or before June 1st, and returned on or before January 1st each year, till the lease expires.

17. When it comes to the knowledge of the Subdivisional Canal Officer that canal water has been taken without authority, he shall hold a local investigation and transmit the record thereof to the Divisional Officer, who shall, if he is of opinion that the fields should be assessed, forward the case with his remarks to the Deputy Collector. Separate proceedings shall be taken in the case of each village irrigated without authority.

18. On receipt of the record mentioned in Rule 17, and after hearing any objection which may be raised, the Deputy Collector shall determine whether water-rates can be legally charged, and if so, he shall proceed to assess, at the rate provided in Rule 10, the land irrigated without authority. Water-rates shall not be charged where the unauthorized irrigation has occurred through the act, neglect or default of a Canal Officer or subordinate.

19. The statements of the amounts demandable for water-rates leviable under the rules in force shall be prepared under the supervision and signature of the Deputy Collector in such form as shall from time to time be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor. Persons charged under Rule 10 or 18 shall be served, by post or otherwise, with a statement showing the amounts charged to enable them to lodge an appeal to the Collector under section 91 of the Act, if they desire to do so.

20. Should it be proved, after due enquiry, that the supply of water given to any leased area is habitually wasted, or used for the irrigation of lands not under lease, it shall be competent for the Superintending Canal Officer to direct that the lease shall be cancelled with effect from the 1st of June next following.

21. The rates for water supplied from June to November shall in each season fall due on the 1st January and 15th February following, but all sums of Rs. 5 and under shall become due on the 1st January and be payable in one instalment. The Deputy Collector may, however, require one-half of the rates due on applications filed after the 1st of September to be paid in advance, and may refuse to issue a permit for more than one year. The rates for water supplied for winter crops shall fall due on the 1st April following.

22. Water-rates imposed under Rule 10 or 18 shall fall due as soon as the assessment is made, and shall be realized at once.

23. The Superintending Canal Officer may, with the concurrence of the Collector direct the Deputy Collector to—

I.—Cease to issue permits for the irrigation of lands in villages where there have been constant difficulties in realizing water-rates until all the arrears of water-rates due are paid up, and also, if specially so ordered, unless half the amount due under new applications is paid in advance. An order under this rule shall be in force for the time stated therein, which shall not exceed three years.

II.—Cancel any five-years' lease if on the 1st of June of any year water-rates to the extent of half the demand for one year are in arrears.

24. Remission of water-rates, either in whole or part, as the case may require shall be granted by the Deputy Collector for—

I.—Errors in the assessment of rates.

II.—Injury to the crop on a leased area caused by deficient supply of water, provided a written application for remission has been made 15 days at least before the crop is cut.

In regard to applications under II, the written opinion of the Divisional Canal Officer shall be obtained and form part of the record of the case.

25. The Deputy Collector, with the written consent of the Divisional Canal Officer may grant remissions of water-rates, either in whole or part, for injury to the crops on leased areas caused by excess of water due to deficient drainage.

26. The Deputy Collector may, with the written assent of the Divisional Canal Officer, commute rates charged under Rules 10 and 18 to those chargeable for water supplied on application, provided that a lease either for a term of years or for the season has been subsequently executed for the lands in question.

27. Remissions on other grounds than the above require the sanction of Government.

28. In cases where sums due on account of water-rates cannot be collected owing to the death, bankruptcy, or absconding of the defaulter, the amount which is non-realizable may be written off as irrecoverable on the authority of the Superintending Canal Officer.

29. Before awarding compensation under section 16 of the Act, or making a reference under section 17 of the Act, the Collector shall obtain the written opinion of the Superintending Canal Officer, and his written opinion shall form part of the record of the proceedings.

30. The chaukidar or mukhya of any village in which lands are leased for a term of years shall be entitled to a remission of water-rates for his holding either as a jagir or raiyati up to a limit of 3 acres per cent. provided he gives efficient and willing assistance to the Canal Officers in respect to the following matters:—

I.—In the preparation of applications for leases.

II.—In the measurements of irrigated lands.

III.—In giving the names of the occupiers of the various fields.

IV.—In receiving demand statements and informing the cultivators of the demands against them.

V.—In receiving tappas from the zilladars and distributing them.

VI.—In being present when complaints are investigated by Canal Officers, and giving information regarding the matters under investigation.

VII.—In reporting to the zilladars any mutations in holdings of persons who have signed a lease for a term of years.

31. Tanks may be filled with canal water without charge, wherever water can be made available without injury to the cultivation dependent on a canal under the following conditions:—

I.—No tank shall be filled unless the water is to be exclusively used for domestic purposes or for watering cattle.

II.—No tank shall be filled from which irrigation is practised.

III.—No tank shall be filled which intercepts any line of drainage or is liable to overflow from the accumulation of water from natural causes.

IV.—No tank shall be filled except on the written order of the Subdivisional Canal Officer issued on the written application of the persons concerned.

V.—No tank shall be filled unless the village channel used to convey water to it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Subdivisional Canal Officer to be in a sound condition when the application is made.

VI.—The privilege here accorded may, by the written order of the Subdivisional Canal Officer, be suspended for 12 months for the breach of any of the above rules.

32. The Divisional Canal Officer may supply water for manufacturing or other purposes and charge for the same at the rate of one rupee for each 10,000 cubic feet or part of 10,000 cubic feet supplied. The same charge will be made if water is taken into a tank without authority or used in an unauthorized manner.

33. No person shall, without the permission in writing of the Divisional or Subdivisional Canal Officer, pass or cause any animal or vehicle to pass on or across any of the works, banks or channels of a canal or drainage work after he has been desired to desist therefrom, except by means of such bridges, fords and ferries and their approaches as are provided by the Divisional Canal Officer.

34. No officer employed on the canals, unless especially exempted by the Lieutenant-Governor from the operation of this rule, shall have any interest in the distribution of water from any of the canals, or purchase or bid for any Government property sold thereon, either in his own name or in the name of another, or jointly, or in shares with others.

35. Except as provided in the Act and in these rules, no appeal shall lie from any order passed by a Canal Officer; but the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the order of the Divisional Canal Officer, and the Subdivisional Canal Officer or Divisional Canal Officer shall modify any orders passed by them in accordance with the orders of the Superintending Canal Officer, who shall exercise a general control over the proceedings of all Canal Officers.

36. In appeals to the Collector under section 91 of the Act other than those specially provided for in Rule 19, the Collector may require the Superintending Engineer to state his opinion in writing, which shall form part of the record of the proceedings in the case.

The new Elfin transit marks have been shifted from their former position on the bearing in line N. 40° 30′ W. The backing mark has been surmounted by a white globe as this shows up much better with the jungle forming a dark back ground.

The old channel is shoaling up, and there is now on the outer bar 6 inches, and the inner bar is dry at low water.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JANUARY 1898.

In ordinary years the unsettled weather accompanying the withdrawal of the monsoon is too far south by the middle of December to be of any importance in the discussion of weather conditions in Bengal or the north of the Bay. It will be remembered that during the past year the seasonal change was later than usual and that a cyclonic storm advanced northwards and broke up over the north of the Bay before reaching the land towards the end of December.

Similarly disturbances have beeen later than usual in making their appearance from the west. Usually several cross Bengal during January, but in the month just past only one cold weather disturbance occurred, and that close to the end of the month. The depression was of some depth, and it caused general, and in parts heavy, rain over the whole of Bengal Proper and a considerable portion of Bihar. In Orissa no rain fell throughout the month, and in Chota Nagpur only a few light scattered showers.

During the first three weeks fine settled weather prevailed, generally with light north-westerly winds and temperature below the normal.

After a brisk rise of pressure in the north-west of the province on the 1st, the distribution was more uniform than usual, not only in the land area, but also over the Bay. The difference from the normal varied from excess of ·05 inch in the extreme south-west of the Bay to defect of ·07 inch in the north of Bengal and Bihar. The highest readings were in Chota Nagpur and the light winds were in consequence less northerly than usual. Temperature was practically normal. There was very little change till the 6th except in temperature, which fell about 2° over Lower Bengal. During these early days pressure oscillated slowly, but on the 6th a brisk rise set in from the west, and the gradient became considerably steeper. The westerly winds strengthened, and a fall of temperature followed almost immediately. The rise of pressure was only temporary as a slow fall prevailed on the 7th, but it was renewed on the 8th and continued till the 10th, when there was a large excess in Bihar. Excess varied from ·17 inch in the west of Bihar to ·01 inch in the extreme south of the Bay. Those high and almost steadily increasing pressures were accompanied by cold weather conditions of a well marked kind. Steady dry north-westerly winds above the usual strength blew from day to day; the sky was almost cloudless, and mean temperature was below the normal by varying amounts up to 7°, the larger differences being in the south-western districts.

The rise ceased on the 10th, but it was not till the 14th that the pressure distribution became normal, and on the 15th there was a moderate defect. Temperature then began to rise rather rapidly. On the latter date there was still a uniform defect of about 3° in Bengal Proper and Orissa though in the west of Bihar and Chota Nagpur there was a small excess.

During the third week and the early part of the fourth oscillatory changes occurred very similar to those just described. Pressure rose until there was a considerable excess over the north of the province on the 19th, after which it fell briskly, remaining about normal from the 22nd to the 24th. As before temperature fell most in the south-western districts, when pressure was highest in the north, and the defect gradually disappeared as the pressure distribution became more normal.

Up to this time the atmospheric changes had been of the oscillatory character usual in fine settled weather, but the variations from the normal were somewhat greater than usual, especially in temperature. About the 25th the first signs of the approaching disturbance appeared. A brisk fall of pressure was general over the province, and a rapid increase of temperature was reported from the west of Bihar, the greatest excess being 8°·5 at Dehri. Winds were becoming easterly and cloud was increasing. These changes continued on the 26th, when a shallow depression was shown over the western districts with a cyclonic wind circulation. The greatest defect in pressure was only ·1 inch, but the wave of high temperature advancing eastward had reached the central districts, and a few light scattered showers were reported from Bihar. The shallow depression filled up very quickly during the following twenty-four hours, during which there was unsettled weather with thunderstorms and rain in all parts of the province except Orissa and Chota Nagpur. At 8 A.M. on the 27th it had almost disappeared. The pressure distribution was normal or above except in East Bengal, where there was still high temperature. The rapid rise continued on the 28th and fine weather became established.

Only a few stations in Bengal Proper received no rain on the 27th, and in many cases the falls were heavy, not unfrequently over 1 inch. A few stations received more than 2 and Faridpur more than 3 inches. Light showers fell in parts of North and East Bengal on the 28th. The change of temperature was about 10° after the depression had passed, but owing to the previous large excess mean temperature fell very little below the normal.

During the last two days of the month pressure fell briskly and temperature was rising, but these changes were of no importance, as they were merely the after-effects of the disturbance of the previous days.

Pressure on an average for the whole month was practically normal over a great part of the province. In East Bengal there was a very slight defect and elsewhere a small excess, greatest in North Bengal and Orissa, but rarely more than ·02 inch. Changes were regular during the first three weeks of the month and of an oscillatory character, the cycle being completed in about a week. On the approach of the depression from the west there was a brisk fall for some days and then a rapid recovery on the 27th, which continued till the 29th, when there was a large excess. Owing to the fall on the last two days the month closed with a distribution nearly normal.

Temperature was low during the greater part of the month, but in the fourth week there was a large excess for some days before the disturbed weather on the 27th. Owing to this large excess, which was at times as much as 10°, the means for the month do not differ much from the normal. Mean maximum values were about 1° below the normal in Bengal Proper and Orissa and about 1° above in Bihar and Chota Nagpur.

In mean night temperatures there was defect almost everywhere, increasing from north-east to south-west In Lower Bengal and Bihar defect was from 1° to 2° and in Orissa it was 4°.

The mean temperature was normal in Bihar, North Bengal and Assam and below elsewhere, by about 1° in Lower Bengal and Chota Nagpur and 2° in Orissa.

Rainfall.—Bengal Proper on an average received rain in excess of the normal, while in Bihar, Orissa and Chota Nagpur there was a large deficiency. In the last two divisions practically no rain fell, and in Bihar, where showers were fairly general on the 27th, only 25 inch was received instead of ·66, the normal amount. The average fall in South-West and North Bengal was above the normal by about a tenth of an inch and in East Bengal it was ·78 inch, the normal being ·44 inch.

A few light showers fell in the western districts on the 26th and in the east on the 28th. With these exceptions the whole of the rainfall of the month occurred on the 27th It was general in Bengal and a considerable portion of Bihar, but being due to thunderstorms was variable in amount. Full details are given in the accompanying rainfall tables.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the month of January 1898 :—

M. Finucane,

No. 264P., dated Calcutta, the 28th January 1898.

NOTIFICATION—By the Government of India, Department of Revenue and Agriculture.

In exercise of the power conferred by section 49 of the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888), the Governor-General in Council is pleased to make the following rules for dealing with applications presented under section 5 of the Act:—

1. Every application under section 5 of the Inventions and Designs Act, 1888 (V of 1888), for leave to file a specification shall, on receipt and before being entered in the register of inventions maintained under section 12, be examined by the Secretary with a view to ascertain whether it complies with the requirements of the said section 5. No application or duplicate application shall be notified in the Gazette or open to public inspection until such examination has been made, and unless and until the application has been entered in the register of inventions.

2. If, on examination, the application is found to be manifestly defective in respect of any of the said requirements, that is to say,—

(a) if it is not signed by the inventor or by his duly authorised agent;
(b) if the name, occupation or address of the inventor is not stated;
(c) if there is any material departure from the form prescribed in the second or third schedule to the Act, as the case may be;

the application shall not be deemed to be an application within the meaning of the section, and the Secretary shall return it and its duplicate to the applicant, with as little delay as possible, together with an order specifying the defects on account of which it is returned. An application so returned shall have the date of receipt endorsed upon it, but it shall not be numbered or entered in the register of inventions.

Explanation.—If the application contains a substantial and bonâ fide description of the invention and of its novelty, it shall not be held to be defective under clause (e) or clause (f) merely by reason of the description not being so full or explicit as may be desirable.

3. If the application is not manifestly defective in respect of any of the matters referred to in rule 2, the Secretary shall enter it in the register of inventions. If it appears to be defective in any other respect, or if the description of the invention or of its novelty is insufficient, the Secretary may return it for amendment with an order specifying the defects to be supplied, or may, under section 5, sub-section (3), call for further particulars relating to the invention or for drawings or photographs illustrative thereof. When the Secretary returns an application or calls for further particulars or for drawings or photographs under this rule, he shall fix a reasonable period, within which, if the application is not resubmitted, duly amended, or if the further particulars, drawings or photographs are not supplied, as the case may be, the application shall be deemed to have been abandoned and no further action shall be taken upon it. REVISED WATER-RATE RULES FOR THE MIDNAPORE CANAL.

The 14th February 1898.

No. 19.—Notification.—In exercise of the powers conferred on him by sections 99 and 78 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant Governor proposes to pass the following rules and to fix the undermentioned rates to be charged for water supplied from the Midnapore Canal. These rules and rates will supersede those now in force.

A. D. MCARTHUR, Col., R.E.,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

1. The Divisional Canal Officer is responsible for maintaining the canal in an efficient state of repair, for providing drainage channels where necessary, and generally for all engineering work involved in its management, as well as for the distribution of water to lessees. The word "canal" is here used as defined in section 3 of the Act.

2. The Deputy Collector is responsible for the assessment and collection of water-rates accruing to Government from the canal.

3. Water shall not be distributed otherwise than on the application of a lessee, or to a person in whose favour a provisional license under Rule 15 has been issued. Such application may be made verbally or in writing to any subordinate in charge of that part of the canal from which water is required.

4. If any lessee apply for water to the Deputy Collector or one of his subordinates verbally, he shall be directed to address himself to an irrigation officer or subordinate. If he makes such an application in writing, his petition shall be forwarded direct by the zilladar, to whom it is addressed, to the Subdivisional Canal Officer in charge of that part of the canal from which the petitioner's village is supplied.

5. The Divisional Canal Officer shall map out the irrigable area into blocks in accordance with the natural features of the ground, and so determine that the whole block shall be irrigable from one outlet or from one set of outlets. So far as may be practicable, the blocks shall be separated by drainage lines.

6. Each block determined as above shall be numbered and recorded with its irrigable area in registers to be maintained by the Divisional Canal Officers and Deputy Collector. The blocks shall also be marked on maps to be maintained by the same officers.

7. Ordinarily leases for not more than five years may be granted for the whole irrigable area of a block, or, subject to the provisions of Rule 13, for definite parts of a block under the following conditions:—

I.—Ordinarily the whole irrigable area of any village, so far as situated within the block, must be included in the lease.

II.—All leases within one block shall be granted so that they shall expire on the same date.

III.—In order to equalize the areas to be dealt with in each year, the date of expiry of the leases in each block shall be determined by the Divisional Canal Officer in consultation with the Deputy Collector, so that, as far as practicable, one-fifth of the total area usually irrigated may fall out of lease in each year.

IV.—No permit shall be granted, when the supply of water must of necessity be delivered across an unleased area, unless a village channel exists, which, in the opinion of the Subdivisional Canal Officer, will deliver water without waste across the unleased area.

To enable the Special Deputy Collector to equalize the area which lapses each year leases in suitable blocks may be granted under the above conditions for six or seven years with the approval of the Executive Engineer.

8. The rates to be charged for water supplied between 16th June and 30th November, whether by flow or lift, to lessees on application shall be—

For a term of five years—Re. 1-8 per acre for each season. The area under long lease will, in future, as a rule, be reduced to 75,000 square acres, i.e, 65,000 acres under the Midnapore weir, 8,000 under the Panchkura weir and 2,000 under the Tidal reaches.

For one year or for water supplied on a provisional license for which a permit for a term of years is not subsequently issued, Rs. 3 per acre.

Provided that the leases, whether new or renewals required for shorter terms than five years in order to develop the system of blocks as explained above, shall be charged Re. 1-8 per acre only.

If water is available after the long leases have been irrigated, leases for a single watering may be given at eight annas per acre, the rate being payable in advance.

9. For the supply of water, when available, for winter crops, a rate of Rs. 2-8 per acre per season shall be charged.

10. For the unauthorized use of canal water a rate of Rs. 5 per acre, or such less rate as may be sanctioned by the Deputy Collector, shall be charged.

11. Application for water-leases under section 74 of the Act shall be presented to the Subdivisional Officer through the zilladar in whose charge the land lies.

12. Every application for a water-lease shall contain the following particulars:—

1.—Name and residence of applicant.

2. Name of pargana, mahal and village in which the land to be irrigated is situated.

3.—Total area for the irrigation of which the application is made and its boundaries, and if the lands to be irrigated lie in separate chaks, the name of each chak.

4.—Names of the raiyats whose lands are to be irrigated, and the quantity of land held by each.

5.—Name of the canal and number of distributary from which water is required.

6.—Signatures of the applicants.

13. A separate application must be presented for lands in each village, but tahsilalaida or other lands lying within the village boundary at the time of survey may be included.

14. Before a permit for a term of years is granted, the written consent of the Divisional Canal Officer shall be obtained, but permits for one year only and provisional licenses may be issued with the written assent of the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The Deputy Collector shall on the day of issue forward a copy of all permits granted to the Divisional Canal Officer.

Existing leases may, with the written consent of the Divisional Canal Officer, be extended for not more than three years, without enquiry or remeasurement, payments being made in accordance with the existing assessment.

15. When a water-lease is granted, a kabuliyat shall be taken in a form approved by Government, and a "permit" shall be given to the lessee or lessees in a form similar to that prescribed in Schedule C of the Act. Pending the completion of a lease, the zilladar may issue a provisional license for the supply of water to an area covered by an application.

16. On the issue of a permit or provisional license, the zilladar shall forward to the Subdivisional Canal Officer direct a requisition requesting him to supply water to the lessee on application. This requisition shall be kept by the Canal Officer till January 1st next following, and shall then be returned to the Deputy Collector. On the back should be noted the several dates on which the village was supplied with water. A fresh requisition shall be issued on or before June 1st, and returned on or before January 1st each year, till the lease expires.

17. When it comes to the knowledge of the Subdivisional Canal Officer that canal water has been taken without authority, he shall hold a local investigation and transmit the record thereof to the Divisional Officer, who shall, if he is of opinion that the fields should be assessed, forward the case with his remarks to the Deputy Collector. Separate proceedings shall be taken in the case of each village irrigated without authority.

18. On receipt of the record mentioned in Rule 17, and after hearing any objection which may be raised, the Deputy Collector shall determine whether water-rates can be legally charged, and if so, he shall proceed to assess, at the rate provided in Rule 10, the land irrigated without authority. Water-rates shall not be charged where the unauthorized irrigation has occurred through the act, neglect or default of a Canal Officer or subordinate.

19. The statements of the amounts demandable for water-rates leviable under the rules in force shall be prepared under the supervision and signature of the Deputy Collector in such form as shall from time to time be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor. Persons charged under Rule 10 or 18 shall be served, by post or otherwise, with a statement showing the amounts charged to enable them to lodge an appeal to the Collector under section 91 of the Act, if they desire to do so.

20. Should it be proved, after due enquiry, that the supply of water given to any leased area is habitually wasted, or used for the irrigation of lands not under lease, it shall be competent for the Superintending Canal Officer to direct that the lease shall be cancelled with effect from the 1st of June next following.

21. The rates for water supplied from June to November shall in each season fall due on the 1st January and 15th February following, but all sums of Rs. 5 and under shall become due on the 1st January and be payable in one instalment. The Deputy Collector may, however, require one-half of the rates due on applications filed after the 1st of September to be paid in advance, and may refuse to issue a permit for more than one year. The rates for water supplied for winter crops shall fall due on the 1st April following.

22. Water-rates imposed under Rule 10 or 18 shall fall due as soon as the assessment is made, and shall be realized at once.

23. The Superintending Canal Officer may, with the concurrence of the Collector direct the Deputy Collector to—

I.—Cease to issue permits for the irrigation of lands in villages where there have been constant difficulties in realizing water-rates until all the arrears of water-rates due are paid up, and also, if specially so ordered, unless half the amount due under new applications is paid in advance. An order under this rule shall be in force for the time stated therein, which shall not exceed three years.

II.—Cancel any five-years' lease if on the 1st of June of any year water-rates to the extent of half the demand for one year are in arrears.

24. Remission of water-rates, either in whole or part, as the cease may require shall be granted by the Deputy Collector for—

I.—Errors in the assessment of rates.

II.—Injury to the crop on a leased area caused by deficient supply of water, provided a written application for remission has been made 15 days at least before the crop is cut.

In regard to applications under II, the written opinion of the Divisional Canal Officer shall be obtained and form part of the record of the case.

25. The Deputy Collector, with the written consent of the Divisional Canal Officer may grant remissions of water-rates, either in whole or part, for injury to the crops on leased areas caused by excess of water due to deficient drainage.

26. The Deputy Collector may, with the written assent of the Divisional Canal Officer, commute rates charged under Rules 10 and 18 to those chargeable for water supplied on application, provided that a lease either for a term of years or for the season has been subsequently executed for the lands in question.

27. Remissions on other grounds than the above require the sanction of Government.

28. In cases where sums due on account of water-rates cannot be collected owing to the death, bankruptcy, or absconding of the defaulter, the amount which is non-realizable may be written off as irrecoverable on the authority of the Superintending Canal Officer.

29. Before awarding compensation under section 16 of the Act, or making a reference under section 17 of the Act, the Collector shall obtain the written opinion of the Superintending Canal Officer, and his written opinion shall form part of the record of the proceedings.

30. The chaukidar or mukhya of any village in which lands are leased for a term of years shall be entitled to a remission of water-rates for his holding either as a jagir or raiyati up to a limit of 2 acres per cent. provided he gives efficient and willing assistance to the Canal Officers in respect to the following matters:—

I.—In the preparation of applications for leases.

II.—In the measurements of irrigated lands.

III.—In giving the names of the occupiers of the various fields.

IV.—In receiving demand statements and informing the cultivators of the demands against them.

V.—In receiving tappas from the zilladars and distributing them.

VI.—In being present when complaints are investigated by Canal Officers, and giving information regarding the matters under investigation.

VII.—In reporting to the zilladars any mutations in holdings of persons who have signed a lease for a term of years.

31. Tanks may be filled with canal water without charge, wherever water can be made available without injury to the cultivation dependent on a canal under the following conditions:—

I.—No tank shall be filled unless the water is to be exclusively used for domestic purposes or for watering cattle.

II.—No tank shall be filled from which irrigation is practised.

III.—No tank shall be filled which intercepts any line of drainage or is liable to overflow from the accumulation of water from natural causes.

IV.—No tank shall be filled except on the written order of the Subdivisional Canal Officer issued on the written application of the persons concerned.

V.—No tank shall be filled unless the village channel used to convey water to it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Subdivisional Canal Officer to be in a sound condition when the application is made.

VI.—The privilege here accorded may, by the written order of the Subdivisional Canal Officer, be suspended for 12 months for the breach of any of the above rules.

32. The Divisional Canal Officer may supply water for manufacturing or other purposes and charge for the same at the rate of one rupee for each 10,000 cubic feet or part of 10,000 cubic feet supplied. The same charge will be made if water is taken into a tank without authority or used in an unauthorized manner.

33. No person shall, without the permission in writing of the Divisional or Subdivisional Canal Officer, pass or cause any animal or vehicle to pass on or across any of the works, banks or channels of a canal or drainage work after he has been desired to desist therefrom, except by means of such bridges, fords and ferries and their approaches as are provided by the Divisional Canal Officer.

34. No officer employed on the canals, unless especially exempted by the Lieutenant-Governor from the operation of this rule, shall have any interest in the distribution of water from any of the canals, or purchase or bid for any Government property sold thereon, either in his own name or in the name of another, or jointly, or in shares with others.

35. Except as provided in the Act and in these rules, no appeal shall lie from any order passed by a Canal Officer; but the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the order of the Divisional Canal Officer, and the Subdivisional Canal Officer or Divisional Canal Officer shall modify any orders passed by them in accordance with the orders of the Superintending Canal Officer, who shall exercise a general control over the proceedings of all Canal Officers.

36. In appeals to the Collector under section 91 of the Act other than those specially provided for in Rule 19, the Collector may require the Superintending Engineer to state his opinion in writing, which shall form part of the record of the proceedings in the case.

(CIVIL AND CRIMINAL.)

Rule No. , dated the 1897.

1. Cancel Rule 37, pages $\frac{147, 148}{80, 81}$, Chapter $\frac{V}{III}$ of the High Court's General Rules and Circular Orders (Civil and Criminal), as amended by paragraph 1 of Rule No. 7 of 11th March 1892, and substitute therefor the following:—

"37. Persons desiring to draw money deposited in Court and payable to them shall submit to the chief ministerial officer of the Court, under whose decree or order the money was tendered, an application in Form No. 7, or, in the case of rent deposit, in Form No. 8. One copy of such form shall be supplied free of charge. In this form the applicant shall enter all particulars necessary for the identification of the credit. If it is intended to withdraw more than a single item of deposit by one application,* the number or date and amount of each deposit must be distinctly stated."

* This should be restricted of different deposits made in the same case.

2. Cancel Rule 38, page, $\frac{149}{82}$, ibid, as amended by paragraph 2 of Rule No. 7 of 11th March 1892, and the note thereto and substitute therefor the following:—

"38. The chief ministerial officer shall compare the application with the record of the case, and carefully test the validity of the claim. If he finds that the name of the payee has been correctly given, and that there is no objection to the payment of the money on the ground of attachment or otherwise, he shall make enquiry as to the identity of the applicant, and, if satisfied of such identity, shall sign the certificate at the foot of part I of the application, and, after obtaining the signature of the presiding officer to it, pass on the application so signed to the Accountant of the Court or group of Courts. Such Accountant shall compare the contents of the application with the Register of Deposit Receipts, and shall satisfy himself that the amount as shown has been received and is still unpaid, and that the name of the claimant corresponds with the name of the payee entered in the Register, and that no order for the attachment of the money is in force."

If the deposit has been transferred to the Clearance Register (Rules 91, 92), such Clearance Register shall be deemed to be the Register of Deposit Receipts within the meaning of this and the next four rules.

NOTE.—The chief ministerial officer will enter in the Order-Sheet of the record of the case, a note that payment order has been issued, so that a second claim for the amount may not be passed. This note should be signed by that officer and also by the Presiding officer.

3. Cancel Rule 39, pages $\frac{149, 150}{82, 83}$, ibid, as amended by paragraphs 3 and 4 of Rule No. 7 of 11th March, 1892, and substitute therefor the following:—

"39. If the record of the case has been despatched to the record-room of the District Judge, under the orders of the High Court relating to the periodical despatch of records by Subordinate Judicial Officers,* the presiding officer of the Court to which the application is made, shall forward it to the District Judge, whose record-keeper will certify, under countersignature of that officer, that a specified sum of money is due to the applicant. On receipt of such certificate, the chief ministerial officer of the subordinate Court shall make enquiry as to the identity of the applicant, and, if satisfied of such identity, shall sign the certificate at the foot of part I of the application, and further deal with it in the manner prescribed by Rule 38."

* See Rule I, sub-rules 31-37, Chapter IV.

NOTE.—The Record-keeper will enter in the Order-Sheet of the record of the case, a note that payment order has been issued, so that a second claim for the amount may not be passed. This note should be signed by that officer and also by the Presiding officer.

4. Cancel Rule 40, pages $\frac{150, 151}{83, 84}$, ibid, and substitute therefor the following:—

"40. Whenever, after despatch of the record of a case to the District Record-room, any subordinate Court passes an order for the attachment of money in deposit in the case, intimation thereof shall be forthwith sent to the District Judge. The District Judge shall thereupon cause such information to be noted in the Order-Sheet of the case under the signature of the Record keeper and under his countersignature."

5. Cancel Rule 44 at page $\frac{152}{85}$, ibid, as amended by paragraph 5 of Rule No. 7 of 11th March 1892, and substitute therefor the following:—

"44 When the money sought to be drawn out of Court is in deposit, not in the Court to which the application is made, but in another Court, as for example, where two or more Courts at one station are combined for the purposes of accounts, in every such case the duty of the Court to which the application is made shall be merely to receive such application and forward it to the Court of the Judge in charge, with a certificate, made after examination of the record, as provided in Rule 38, that the applicant is the proper party to receive payment of the amount claimed. In any case in which the amount has been transferred from the credit of the original payee to that of the claimant, this fact should be stated. This certificate shall be compared with the Deposit Register in the office of the Judge in charge. Such Register, if the sum is shown therein to be in deposit, will inform the Judge whether there is any bar to payment. If there is no such bar, the payment order may be issued by the Judge in charge, and the facts of its issue shall be communicated to the Court upon whose certificate the application was passed in order to enable it to enter satisfaction for the amount upon the record of the case."

NOTE.—When money realized under the decree of one Court is attached at the instance of another Court, the application for payment should be made to the Court attaching the money. Such Court, after receiving the application, should forward it to the Court under whose decree the money is realized, and, if there be no objection to the payment of the money to the applicant, the latter Court should deal with it under this Rule, or, if the record of the case has been despatched to the District Record-room, under Rule 39. The Court so dealing with the application should also report to the attaching Court, or, if the application has been dealt with under Rule 39, also to the District Court that the amount claimed has been transferred from the credit of the original payee to that of the claimant.

CUSTOM HOUSE NOTICE.

OFFICE ORDER No. 910.

Rules to expedite the clearing of imported goods through the Custom House.

1. When any vessel is expected shortly to arrive in the port, and the Agents desire to avail themselves of the facilities provided by these rules, they may file an application for inward entry of the vessel, together with the Import manifest in duplicate at any time not exceeding 7 days before the probable date of arrival.

2. The application shall be in the ordinary form, and shall, in addition to the usual particulars, state the probable date of arrival of the vessel, and shall contain an undertaking by the Agents that they will immediately after her arrival in port procure—

(a) the master's authority appointing them his agents,

(b) two copies of the store list signed by the master, and

(c) such other documents as are prescribed by the Customs authorities.

3. On receipt of such an application, together with the Import manifest, in duplicate, a notice to that effect shall be published in the Custom House Daily List of Imports for the information of importers.

4. Thereupon and notwithstanding that the order for inward entry has not yet been given, importers may present their bills of entry accompanied, where necessary, by bills of lading, delivery orders and invoices, and may proceed to go through the whole procedure for clearing their goods (including the payment of duty when this is permitted by Rule 5) in accordance with existing rules in the same manner as if the vessel had actually arrived down to the stage mentioned below.

5. The stage to which importers may go in anticipation of the vessel's arrival is as follows:—

(a) in the case of overside goods, the order to appraise and outpass;

(b) in the case of goods which are opened for examination, the order to open and examine;

(c) in the case of goods of which the whole or a percentage is sent into the Custom House, the order to send the whole or a percentage;

(d) in the case of bonded goods the stage preceding the execution of the bond;

(e) in the case of salt intended for delivery within the excepted limits, the issue of the salt certificate;

(f) in the case of salt intended for delivery beyond the excepted limits, the stage immediately preceding the grant of the salt duty receipt.

6. When the vessel arrives in port, the agents shall give notice of the fact to the Assistant Collector, at the same time producing the Master's authority appointing them his agents and filing the store lists and other documents required by the Customs as provided by rule 2, and the Assistant Collector shall thereupon give the formal order for inward entry.

7. On the arrival of the vessel, importers will take up the clearing of their goods at the stage to which it had been carried previously.

8. No fee will be charged for filing an amended or supplementary manifest prior to the formal order for inward entry. For amending or supplementing manifests after such order has been given, the usual fees will be charged.

9. For the purposes of section 87 of the Sea Customs Act, a bill of entry presented under these rules prior to the arrival of the vessel shall be deemed to be delivered on the date when the order for inward entry is passed.

10. The Collector of Customs reserves to himself the right to withhold the privilege allowed by these rules in any case at his discretion, without stating reasons, or to grant it subject to such conditions as may seem to him necessary in the particular case.
